Foreword

Why hello! What are you all doing here? Y'know, this is really very embarrassing; I don't know what to say. I'm just waiting around for my - - uh - my cousin, Josie Blow, to get here. She wants to be shown around Morton, but I never expected all you people to be waiting for her too - - That's a funny thing. For the last three years something like this has happened. Fellows I know have taken friends through school, and hardly before they got past the door, there was a mob of people just like this following them. Well, say, you might even be the same mob! Anyway, as long as you are all here, you might just as well come along this time too. The other fellows showed you the vocational department first, then the academics we have in school, and last year you saw the vocational and music departments. I was planning to take Josie to see the clubs and athletics at Morton when she gets here; so after you see this side of our school life, you'll have it all.

Dedication

Before we start out, I think there's something that you people ought to know. You are all acquainted with Miss Prutsman and Mr. MacLean, of course; but I wonder if you realize just how much their work here has meant to us students. To Miss Prutsman as the chief faculty adviser, we owe our wonderful system of clubs and extra activities; Mr. MacLean has helped develop the physical education department from a baseball team to the powerful organization it is today. Two people more interested in their school and more responsible for its fine development are hard to be found anywhere. So, for making Morton a bigger and better place in which to get educated—Hats off to Miss Prutsman and Mr. MacLean!

Assistant Superintendent

Right through this door please, Josie; now you are treading on sacred ground. You are in the presence of all the gods that be as far as we here at Morton are concerned. To your left is the door to the office of our foremost upholder of law and order—Dr. Hrudka. I haven't an element of democracy about me, and consequently, before I met him it was a real effort to pull myself together in his august presence. I guess that feeling is common to everyone in school who hasn't had the opportunity to meet him personally. It is in his office that the Board of Education meet to direct the carrying out of their policies in the betterment of Morton.

To your right you see the assistant superintendent's office. Mr. MacDonald is also an awe-inspiring person who helps Dr. Hrudka guide the many Mortonites.

Across the hall you see the offices of the deans. Mr. Johnson and Mr. Burford take care of the masculine element at Morton while Miss Anderle aids the girls' dean, Miss Prutsman. These people, although they have to check up on discipline cases, are very kind and thoughtful about the many troubles that are laid at their feet by students.

The Class of 1938

Here I am about to launch you into our senior class, Josie. First, however, let me give you a brief résumè of our class history.

I can't ever forget that 2nd of September when someone thrust a pink card in my hand and told me to go to my classes and, "don't be late!" I grew thin and pale with worry about getting that tin box they call a locker open to put my coat in and take my books out. During the first week it became a religion with me to stay away from that locker just as it told me to on my guide card; and with my arm liking to break and a patient smile upon my lips, I saw four long years of the same thing stretching out before me. It is enough to say that others who could "take it" better than I elected Virginia Allen as class president, Bill Goding as vice-president,

Class Advisers: R. J. Deal M. R. Sherwood J. H. Bolton M. Parizek

Rosemary Purvis as secretary, and Richard Novotny as treasurer.

Now that I've confessed all my weaker moments, I can rise again to some degree of respectability in my own eyes while I tell you about my second year at Morton. The only trouble was caused by people who hadn't the perception to see that I was no "frosh" and was learning as quickly as I could how to become an "old hand at the game." Beyond that, however, everything was rosy. It was in this "era of good feeling" that Seymour Hirschberg took the governmental reins. I strutted around proudly at his success, for he came from the same grammar school that I did. Helping him was Ray Friedl in the executive department, Jean Pletcher who kept the books, and Tom Callahan who was the seducer of public funds.

Being a junior was not as thrilling as I expected. I began to realize that high school companionship was more than half over, and I began to find myself wishing for the good old days that hadn't seemed any too good at the time. It was in the third year of school that I began to make plans for that distant future that had seemed so very distant the year before, and to take my life a bit more seriously. Some people call it sophistication, but of course I wouldn't be free to say; and then too, being juniors, we were able to hobnob with the seniors and go to their parties. We had the honor of giving them their farewell memory of Morton in the Spring Prom. All in all we were quite the elite! Ray Friedl came up again, like the good man he is, as class president. William Winser took the position of vice-president. Just knowing Virginia Allen would not lead you to believe that she is a politician, but there must be some strange power about her that got the secretary's job for her that year. Marcelle Ernst handled the finances.

Now, Josie, this year is nearly through. The seniors have been very busy getting ready to graduate, under the able leadership of Bob Dean as class president and his guiding stars, Paul Teeter, vice-president, Jean Pletcher, secretary, and Tom Callahan, treasurer. The officers organized the class into various committees. The Senior Play was under the able supervision of Virginia Allen. Robert Dean as president took charge of the Commencement. Donna Claire Rehkopf of the M. S. G. A. directed the event of the Little Commencement. The job of notifying the February graduates of class activities was undertaken by Vera Vosatka. You know, Josie, I had lots of fun working on the Class-night committee, under Seymour Hirschberg as chairman. The swell caps and gowns we wore were obtained by Fred Wright's committee. The group under Robert Nelson planned the program for our Baccalaureate services. Before you leave, Josie, I want you to meet our four class advisers Miss Sherwood, Miss Parizek, Mr. Deal, and Mr. Bolton, who have given a great deal of time to directing our many activities and are grand persons, all of them. Now come along and I'll introduce you to our officers and the members of our graduating class.

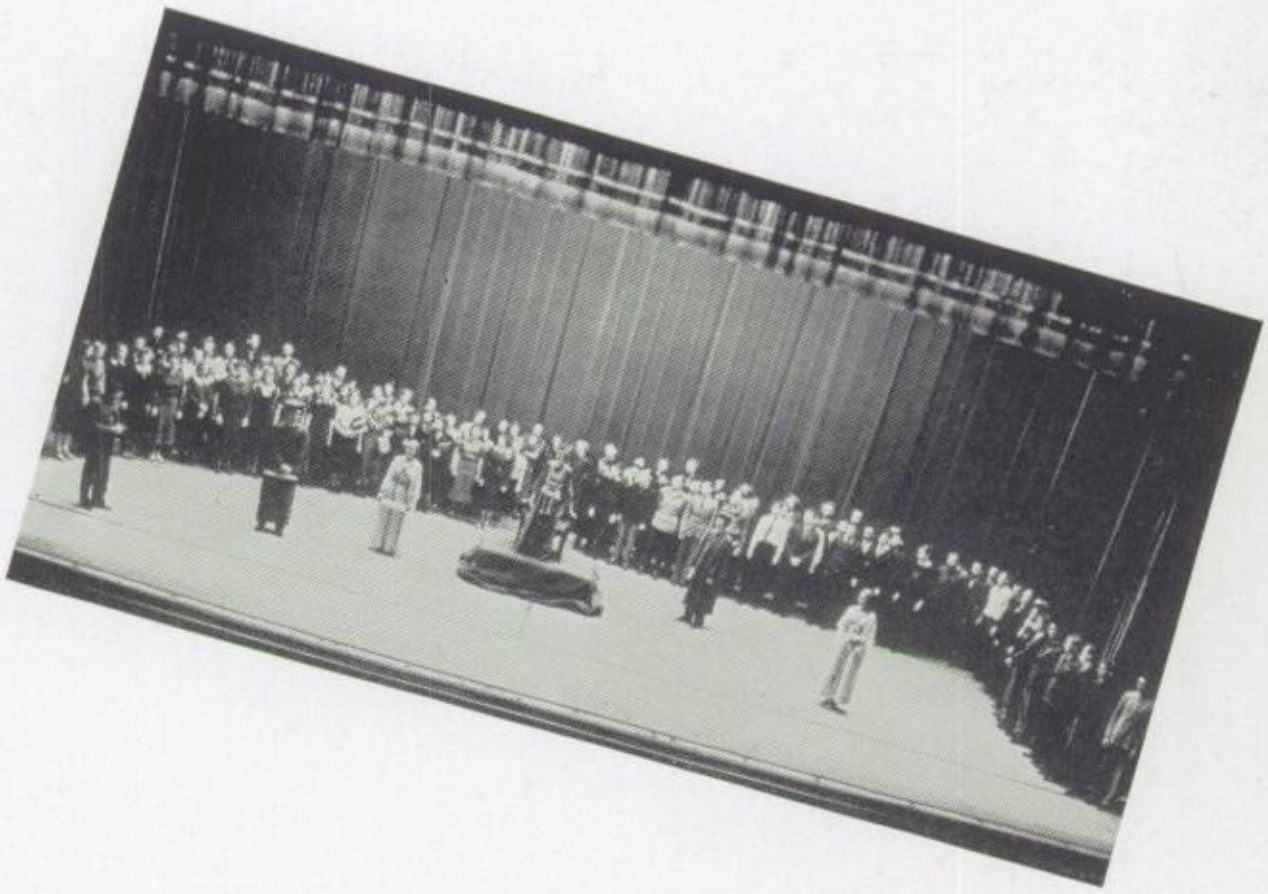
SOCIETY



I think we'll have time to look in at the assembly for a few minutes. It is the annual induction ceremony for the Senior Honor Society. I have gone every year so far, but afterwards I always have a terrific battle with my better self. I walk out of there feeling like a criminal because I never seem to be able to get above 85 in mathematics. But this assembly is a very impressive sight. No one except the teachers know who the new members are until they are called up to the stage. About ten percent of the senior class is admitted to the honor society, and less than three percent of the juniors become members. When the seniors graduate, the membership is very small because only those who were elected as juniors are left in the society. Of course, when any one manages to be elected, he's in for life. It's a valuable recommendation to give an employer; he will have some idea of what he is getting when he employs one who was an honor student in high school. Morton's branch of the society was founded many years ago: I think it was in 1923. There were only thirty five members then. Now in order to become elected, the person who is being considered must have grades for all his previous years above a certain average. If he passes this barrier, he is tested for service, leadership, and character. The honor society is controlled by a National Council, consisting of nine members. The interesting thing to me about the society is that it is not only found in our school but in schools all over.

SOCIETY

The door to the office is right over here. Now don't be excited. Just take it easy. You'll find out that they really are very nice, sociable people. There's a bench out here, Josie. Let's sit down for a while so I can give you an idea of what to expect.

As I told you before, Dr. Hrudka is entertaining the National Junior Honor Society this afternoon in his office; and he invited us too, knowing that you want to see the school. This happens every year, and you were just lucky enough to get here in time for it.

You know, the Morton branch of the society is only a few years old. The Senior Honor Society has been operating here for many years; but Mr. H. V. Church, the former superintendent, felt that honor students shouldn't have to wait until they become seniors to become recognized. So, now we have a Junior Honor Society composed of sophomores and juniors. No person is eligible to join unless he has been in school at least two semesters. Of course, there's that little matter of being recommended by the teachers for membership, but that's nothing. You only have to be among the most intelligent people in school, the best leaders, those of the highest characters, and those who do the most in the way of service to the school. It seems to me that when they call it an honor society, they know what they are talking about. You must have seen those quotations and mottoes that hang above the door to the office. They were purchased and put there by the members; so let them be lessons to you, Josie, and maybe you will be elected to an honor society sometime too. There goes Mr. Harnish, the adviser. Let's go into the party with him.

BEST, BLECHTA, BORDENAVE, CARROLL, DEAN.

This imposing group of students, Josie, is probably the most important and influential in the school. It is the Board of Directors of our student government organization. The constitution of the Association was adopted by the student body back in 1933; and every year since, the organization has been growing in power and influence. The Association serves as an opportunity for the students to participate in the government of the school and as a medium whereby any student may voice his opinion and make suggestions.

The Board is really the executive branch of the organization; and the Chairman who heads it has the most responsible student office because he actually represents all of the 6000 students. The twenty-four members of the Board meet twice a week to report the work which is being carried on by the committees and to discuss the many issues that are constantly coming before them. Many helpful suggestions and much sound advice are given by the faculty advisers who are elected by the board each year. You see, these committees cannot always act with a free rein because their projects must meet with the approval of the administration. So, in addition to being a valuable experience in self government, this work is also a good experience in cooperation. I was honored with a position on the Board in my sophomore year, and I know I learned a lot about the many problems involved in the management of our school that I would not otherwise have realized.

I hope you will be able to meet some of our committee chairmen and their fellow workers. They are doing such interesting things and certainly deserve a lot of respect for the fine service they are rendering their fellow students. It would be impossible in any reasonable length of time for me to tell you about all the work which these committees do. A good many of them carry on their projects all year while others are organized only for special purposes. So our Hall and Dining Room Committee is certainly one of the busiest having under its wing the supervision of the hall monitor system. That fellow we just passed at the top of the stairs is one of the monitors who is stationed there to see that the "up" stairway rule is observed. There are about 125 students giving of their time every day to help maintain order in the halls and dining room.

In the fall a committee cooperates with the four classes and helps them to carry out the great task of class elections. It was through the efforts of the M. S. G. A. that elections were consolidated and standardized. The Social Committee is a great aid to the classes in planning parties and acts as a clearing house for reserving time on the social calendar. The Assembly Committee works with Mr. Ames in planning and supervising student assemblies. Other committees promote schemes for raising student welfare aid, help to standardize eligibility qualifications for student offices, handle publicity and supervise the bulletin boards, foster clean up campaigns, issue charters to clubs, boost athletics and school spirit, help to maintain the building and school equipment, and help out with Red Cross and Christmas seal drives. An enterprising organization, don't you think, Josie?

THE COURT OF JUSTICE

Standing—Ralph Swanson, bailiff; Kenneth Nelson, basliff.

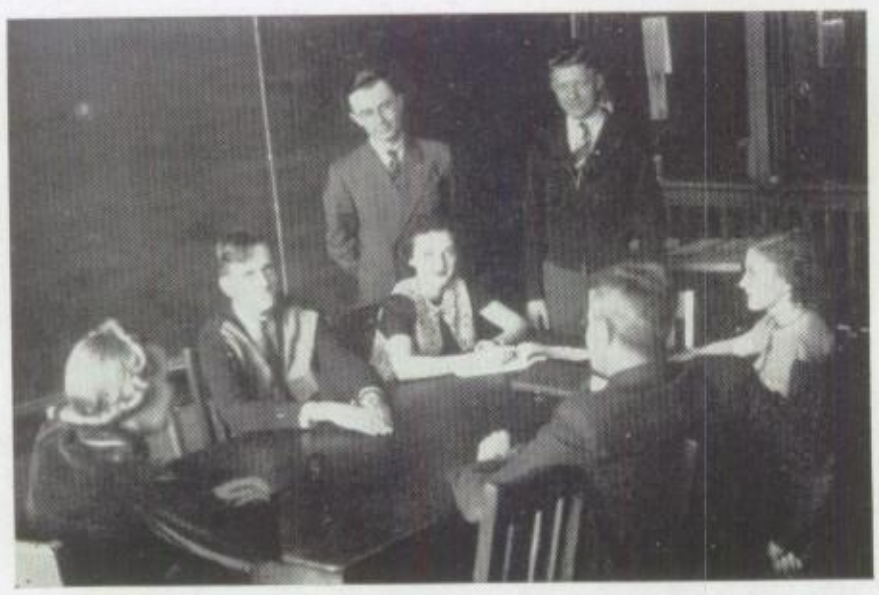
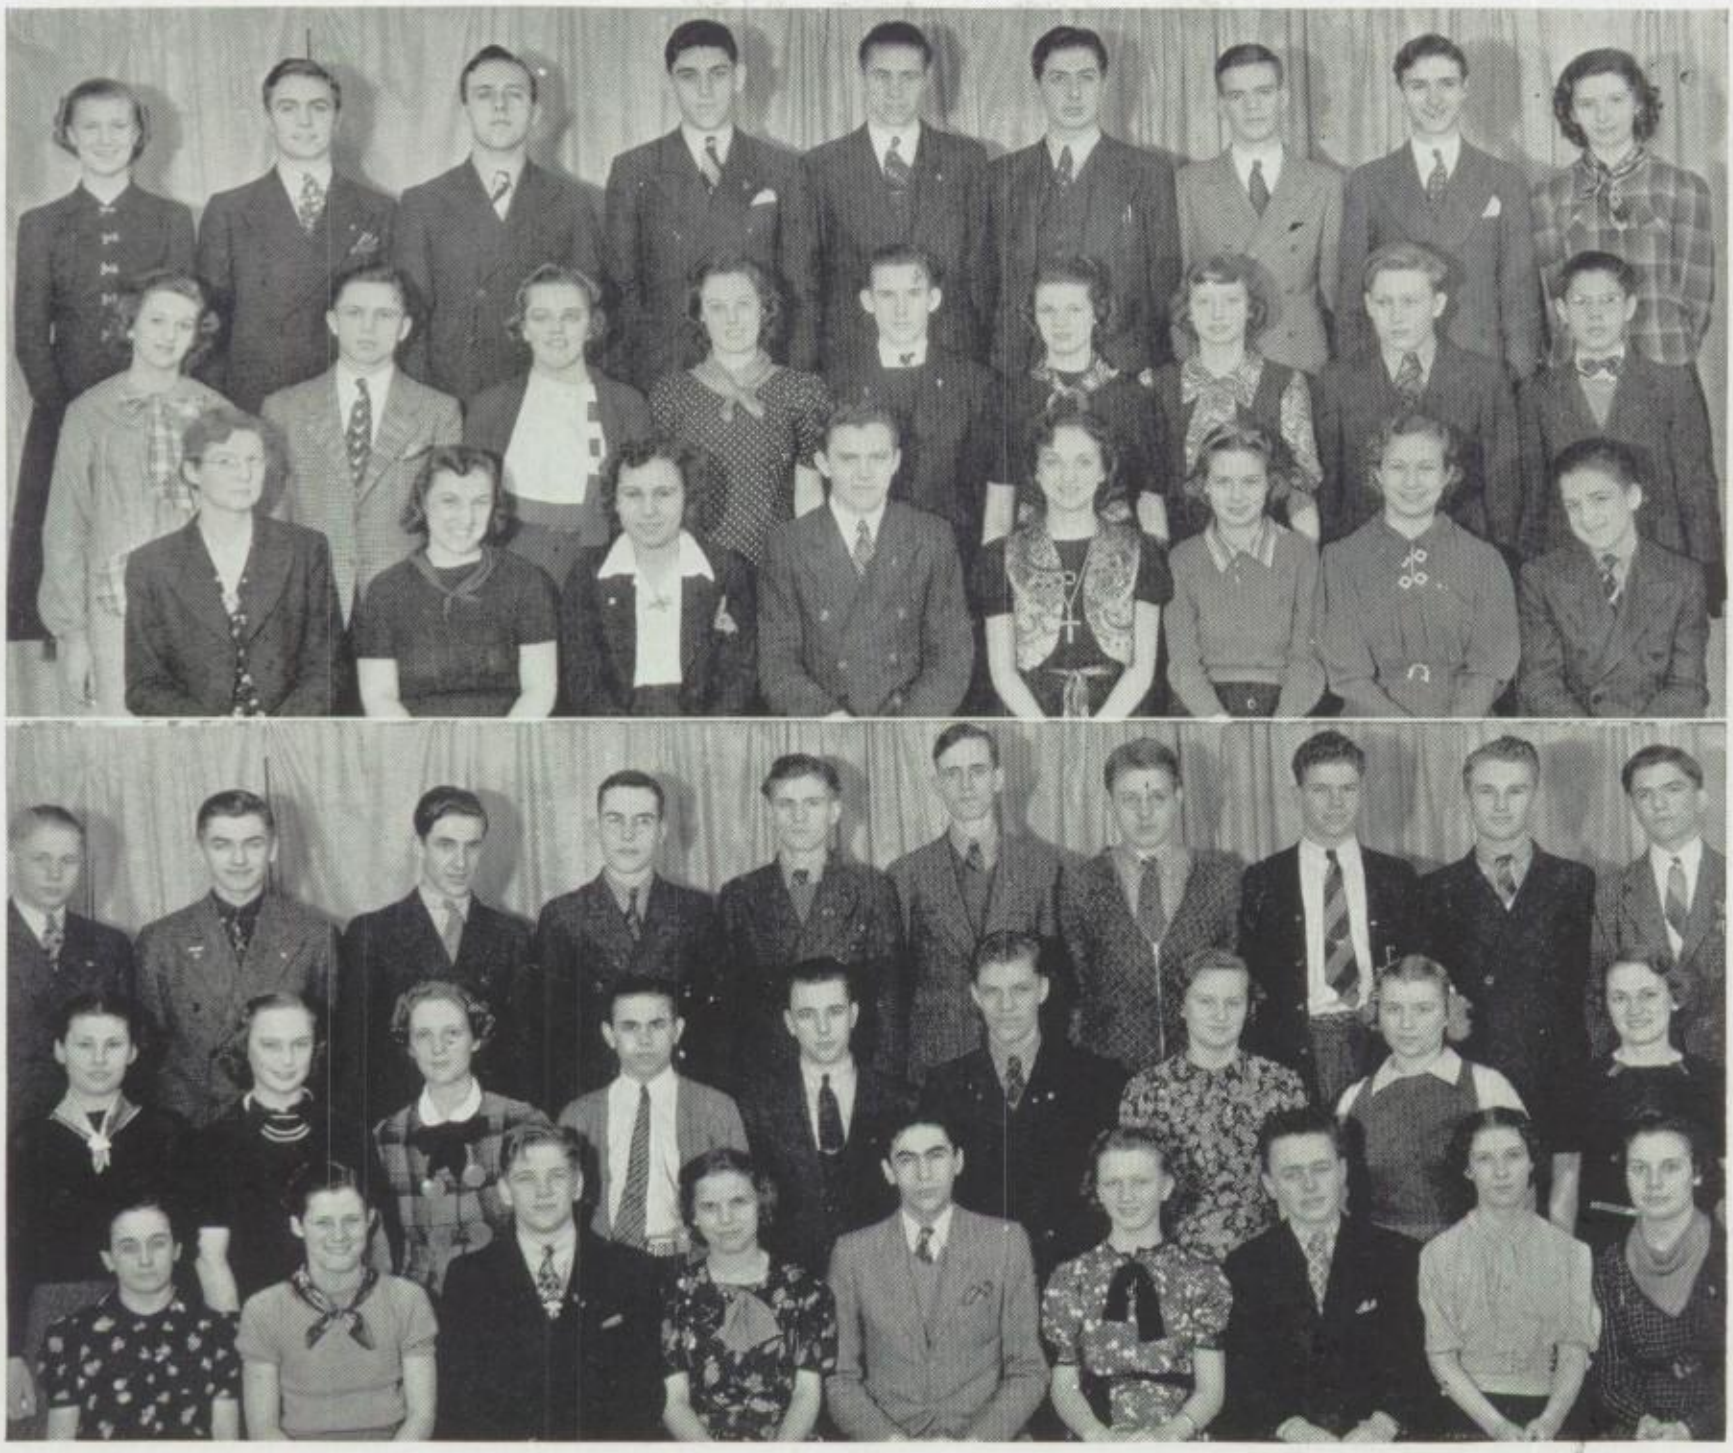
There is an Assembly meeting next hour up in the Little Theater. We'll go up and sit in awhile. Some very interesting discussions take place at these meetings. The Assembly group are those elected by the English classes as direct representatives. At these meetings are voiced all the suggestions and criticisms which come from the student body. The Board members are elected by this group and are responsible to them. This year the Assembly has undertaken a new and worthwhile project which is aimed toward greater civic participation in the school . . Committees are cooperating with the academic departments and are with the help of the classes building up a greater interest in student government work.



The first time I came in contact with the judicial body of the Association, I thought it was going to be a joke; but I found out it was serious business. The three student members and two faculty members of the Court take their duties very seriously and as a result are able to accomplish much toward bringing about a respect for rules and regulations passed by the Association. Sometimes cases which they try are merely violations of traffic rules, but they are just as liable to be serious enough offenses to involve expulsion from school. I think if more of the students would visit court sessions, they would acquire a greater respect for what is being done.



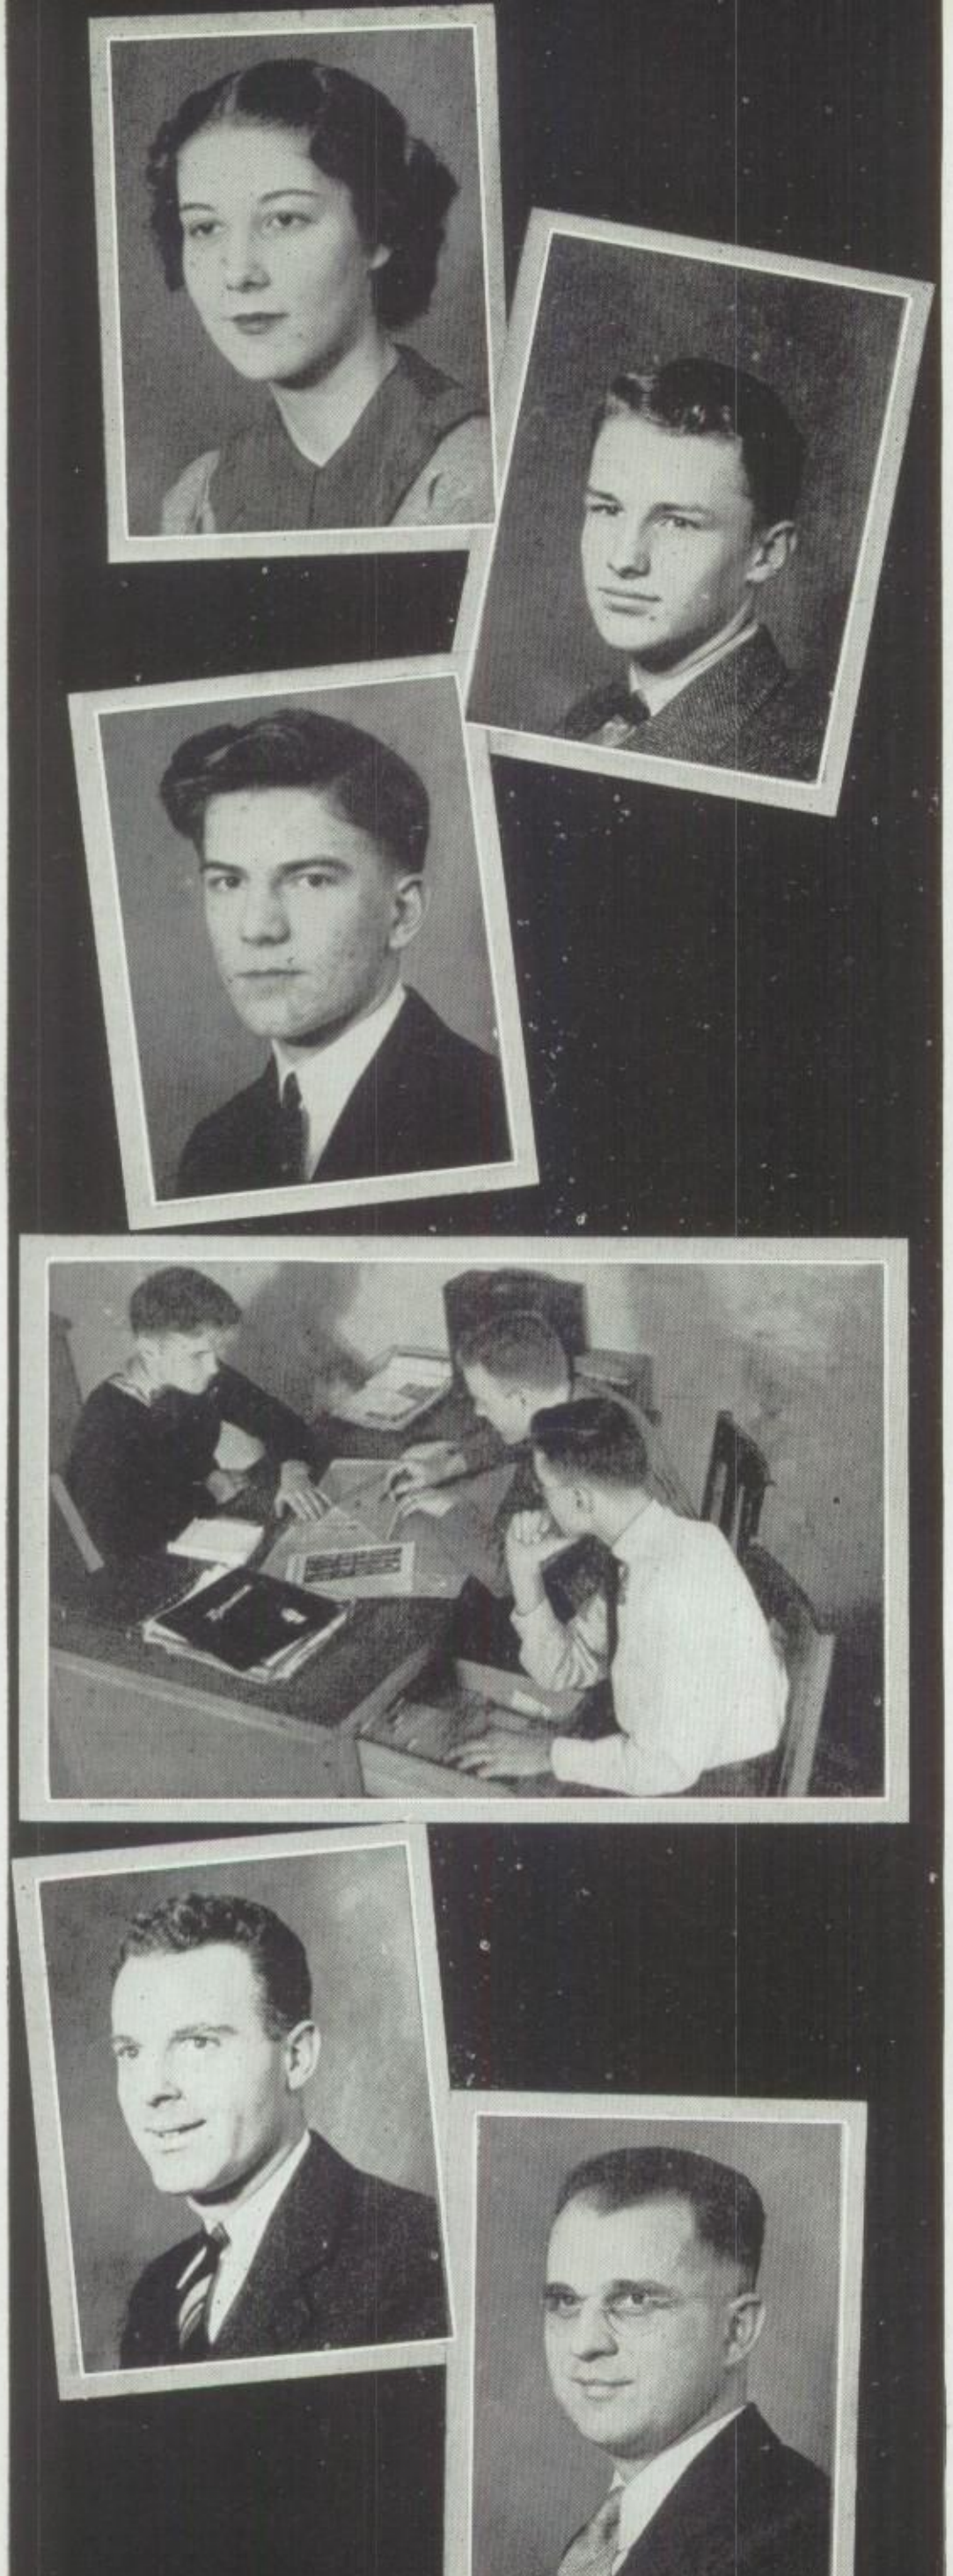
THE ALUMNI BOARD

At last Morton has an alumni organization. It was organized last year by a student who didn't want to part indefinitely with his friends. Josie, do you know I'll soon be an alumnus, but I won't lose my friends—no siree, thanks to Edward Panzella.

In such a large school we have to have a leading group for our organization, and this position is taken by the Alumni Board. This board is divided into two separate groups that function together. The Gold group is made up of seniors, twenty-five boys and twenty-five girls. This Gold group selects twenty-five juniors and asks them to join the board and attend regular meetings as the Silver group. Each group selects its respective officers, a president, first vice-president, second vice-president, secretary, adjutant secretary, and treasurer. Of course, Josie, you understand that only the seniors vote for the officers of the Gold group; this holds true in the election of Silver group officers also. However, if a question comes up which concerns both classes, both groups vote. This board has the power to set dates for banquets to be held in the future. It plans where they will be and what will be included in the program.

You might be wondering, Josie, how these people are selected for the board. The fifty seniors try to pick the leaders of the junior class with regard to their scholastic average. Then when the juniors become seniors and assume the name of the Gold group, they must choose twenty-five more from their class to make up the required number of fifty for the Gold group. When this group is settled they pick out twenty-five of the juniors, in their time, and thus the cycle keeps moving. The reason for having a Silver group all the time is so that the juniors can profit by the experiences of the seniors, and then conduct their own meetings accordingly, avoiding pitfalls in which previous groups have fallen.

I'm sure, Josie, that I'm going to enojoy being an alumnus.



MORTONIAN ANNUAL

Josie, this busy little office is known as the Annual office. Into this room go countless ideas which leave the office in all their glory between the covers of the year-book. The annual has been published continuously for the past twenty years. The staff is chosen by the faculty adviser in September from a list of recommended names. He interviews each person and chooses those who are to be on the staff. I was interviewed, but Mr. Hessler found my scholastic average a shade too low. In my talk with him I learned that he tries to get people representing every phase of Morton life.

After the staff has been selected and an editor and business manager appointed, the staff is divided into various committees. This year, however, the adviser deviated from the regular procedure and appointed co-editors.

Come on, let's look through the office. Oh, here is something I want you to see. It is the editor's dummy. This is really our book. Everything goes in here, and you just can't find this book far away from the editor. See, here are pencil sketches of every layout to go in the book. These scribbly lines mean copy is to go in here. This nervous wreck in the corner is the business manager trying to balance the budget. I guess it helps a lot when one gets an early subscription.

Here comes Mr. Druschel, the faculty aid to the student photographers, with a bunch of pictures in one hand and a birdie in the other.

Now let's hurry to the "J" office before it closes.

MORTONIAN WEEKLY

Josie, this is the journalism office, more commonly known as the "J" office. In here each week a paper is planned and edited.

When the paper was originated, twenty years ago, it was known as the "Maroon and White". The size of the paper and the number of pages has changed considerably cver a number of years. In its present, four page, five column form it has been found most efficient. I certainly enjoy the paper that's delivered to my locker each week. I can always find the latest school news, and always get some good laughs.

I expect that you'll want to know something about qualifications for reporters, won't you? I understand that every member must have a ninety average in English and an eighty-five average in everything else. They must be recommended by their English teachers, and okayed by the head of the English department, Miss Walker, and their advisers. Of course, the Weekly adviser, Miss Gaarder, must give her approval. Let's look around, Josie, and see if we can find a copy.

QUILL AND SCROLL

PLEDGE DUTY!

Where am I going with this pie? Oh, that's for my sponsor. She just loves pie, and I have to bring her one every day. Say, I guess you don't know about this Quill and Scroll business, do you, Josie? It all started like this. Mr. Hessler and Miss Gaarder got their heads together and nominated about thirty people for membership in the Quill and Scroll. It's an international honorary society for high school juniors or seniors who have done worthwhile work for some publication, who are in the upper third of their class, and who are approved by the national executive secretary. Miss Gaarder told me that there are about fifteen thousand members all over the world and over one thousand chapters. But to get back to this pie: when we were nominated, we become "pledges" and each pledge was assigned to a sponsor or one who was already a member of the society. Now this month each pledge must do exactly what his sponsor tells him to do. I'm getting off pretty easy at that with only having to bring a pie every day; George is going to fly a kite this afternoon, and Bob has to find a snowball somewhere for his sponsor. You can never fully realize how unreasonable some people can be until you become a pledge. Why, one boy had to memorize a nice little home-making article on how to keep peas from getting slimy and say it to everyone he met! It's fun now, but it's going to be more fun after the initiation banquet when we quit being the underdogs and get back on an equal level with the sponsors!

SPEECH ACTIVITIES

At Morton we students have many varied opportunities for self-expression, especially in the department dealing with man's basic method of expression, speech. In this department students are taught the fundamentals of dramatics, oratory, debate, reading, and other minor divisions of speech. These activities are not only fun, Josie, but they also are of infinite value in enabling persons to express their ideas and opinions clearly.

Should we go and look over the department of dramatics first? Miss Coggeshall, an able and talented woman, guides those interested over the bumps and pitfalls they might fall into. The members of this association are divided into four separate groups, one group for club recognition of all the four years. The business of these clubs is carried on in much the same manner as that of any parliamentary body; that is, members elect officers who lead the group and see that everything runs smoothly. Here is my club, Josie, the Senior Dramatics. When this club was in its sophomore year, I was treasurer. We take up many interesting angles of dramatics, ranging from the work of a stage hand to that of the actual acting itself. Generally each group presents two plays during the school year. Once I took the part of an old man. Gee, it certainly was thrilling up there on the stage. I guess that's what held my interest so much, and has made me very conscious of all drama.

FORENSICS

Let's enjoy some southern hospitality from Mr. Cherry, adviser of the Debate, Demosthenians, Frosh-Soph Debate, and Oratory Clubs. Oh, here is the Debate Club, an organization which helps a person to determine the difference between argumentation and a clear presentation of facts. Members of this club carry on practice debates among themselves.

Here are the pupils interested in public speaking, Josie. They are invited to join the Demosthenians. Many members of this organization practice giving orations in preparation for the American Legion and Washington contests. Others in this group learn to speak in impromptu or extemporaneous fashion.

Underclassmen are able to get a preliminary training in the Frosh-Soph Oratory and Debate Clubs. They also participate in inter-scholastic debates.

Morton's orators, debaters, extemporaneous or impromptu speakers, and poetry readers are sent to the annual state and national Forensic League contests. Pupils who are outstanding in oratory or debate are rewarded for their efforts by receiving membership in the National Forensic League, just as outstanding dramatists are admitted to the National Thespians.

There is also a reading club at Morton, the members of which are guided by those two literary-minded English teachers, Mrs. Jaburek and Mrs. Zerwer. At a meeting of this club, books are discussed, and stories or poems are read orally. I belong to this club and it surely encourages me to read more books than I have to for my book reports.

SOCIAL LIFE

The Pause that Refreshes

Every couple of weeks we have a junior-senior social in the cafeteria to help us improve our dancing. The socials are sponsored by the M. S. G. A. and the money is divided between the classes, M. S. G. A., and the orchestra. I really enjoy them because they are very informal and everyone is so friendly. At our class parties, which are sponsored by the various classes, the cafeteria is decorated, and refreshments are served.

Oh, but let me tell you about the Prom, Josie. It's swell! The stage is decorated like a ritzy dance hall, and the whole auditorium is open for prom-goers to stroll around in. This is the only dance, other than Classnight, that is held in the evening. It surely is pretty to see all the gals in their summer formals. Gee, I can hardly wait!

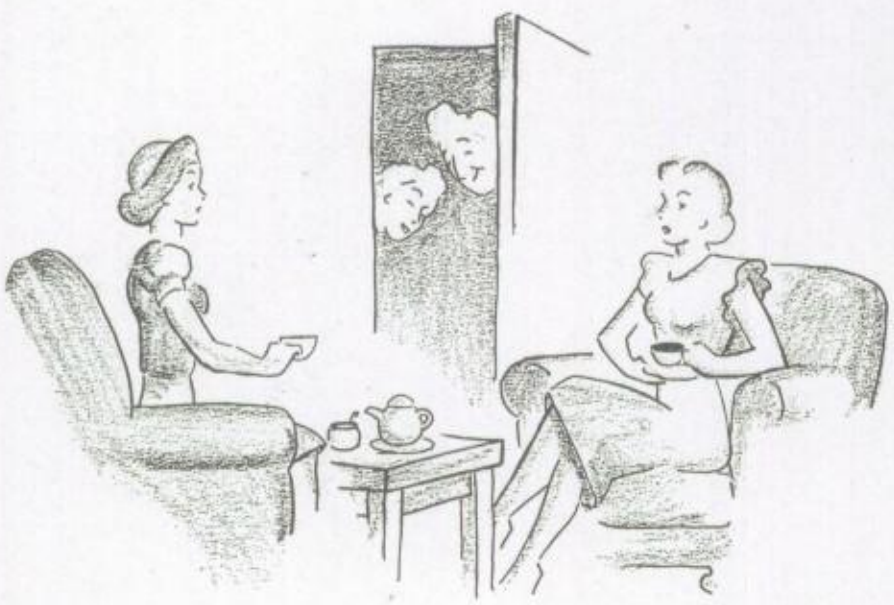
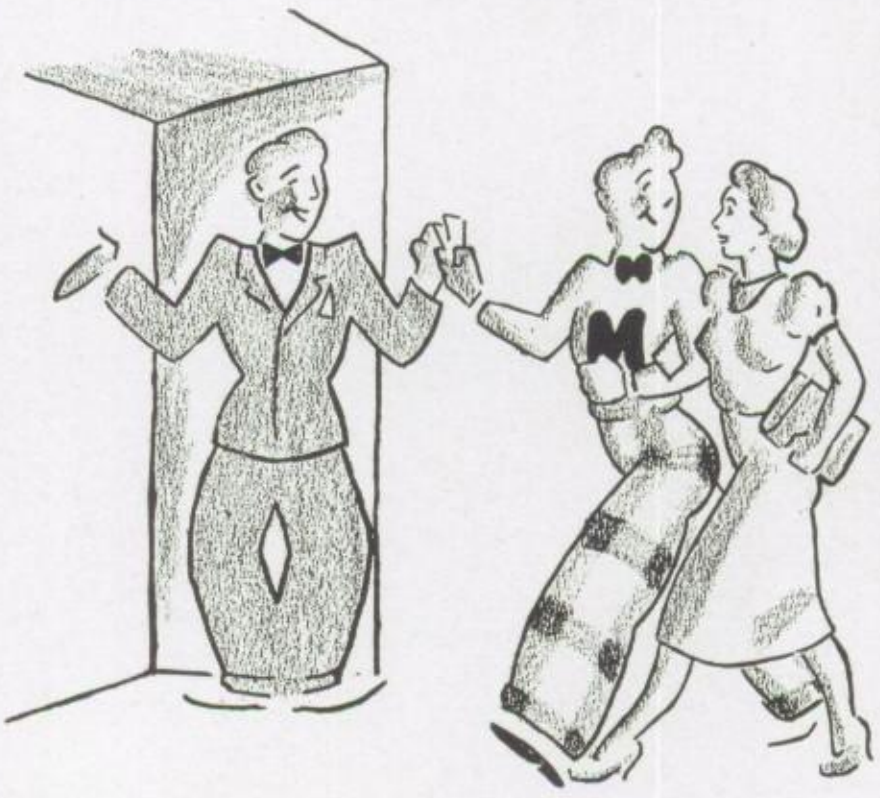
JUNIOR-SENIOR GIRLS' CLUB

Josie, the more I think of it, the more I have to admit that you women are pretty good, in some ways, after all. Now right here is a living, practically breathing example of feminine enterprise—the Junior-Senior Girls' Club. It was the very first club to be organized in school. It's galling, though, when you get right down to it, to think that the boys couldn't have gotten something started before the girls did, or don't you agree? Miss Silliman was the first advisor of the club; then Miss Prutsman took over, and she has had it ever since. It's a very large club because the only requirement for membership, as you may have guessed, is that the girl be a junior or senior in high school. I can see how Miss Prutsman had to be a very brave woman to undertake such a responsibility and get something done where there are so many concerned. But in spite of the size of the club 'or maybe because of it' those girls do accomplish things. I've heard that they work with the Welfare Committee, the Junior Red Cross, the Senior Council, and the Frosh-Soph Girls' Club to be of service through any of those branches; and that's a lot of service! So much for work. When they play, they go about it just as systematically. They have teas every so often and sometimes just programs without tea, and the mothers are invited too.



MORTON COUNCIL

From the looks of things the Morton Council is out for an all-time endurance record. It's been going to Older Boys' Conferences and Hi-Y meetings and Father and Sons' Banquets for nigh onto sixteen years now, and there are no signs yet that it's planning to quit. The boys that sustain the Council now and keep it so active, sixty of 'em, by the way, are some of the least-retiring males in school. At assemblies, for instance, they are always right there at the door to relieve you of your money or ticket or old clothes or anything else you happen to bring along. At the P.T.A. meetings they make themselves obnoxious by informing you that "these seats are reserved." Before the M. S. G. A. was organized, they pushed themselves up to the front again and hall-guarded. And when it comes time for the 4C and the old clothes campaigns, you ought to see 'em go to work! Last year we had a boy come in our English class and give us a regular pep-talk that lasted the whole period—and I don't know how much longer—telling us why we should support these two drives. One night a month Mr. Meeker and the boys get especially clubby and have a night meeting that must be a real joy. There's eats and basketball and swimming and maybe even tic-tac-toe or mumble-de-peg. But they have the very serious objective of creating team work and cooperation among the junior and senior boys and of maintaining and extending high standards of Christian character.



ALMEGA

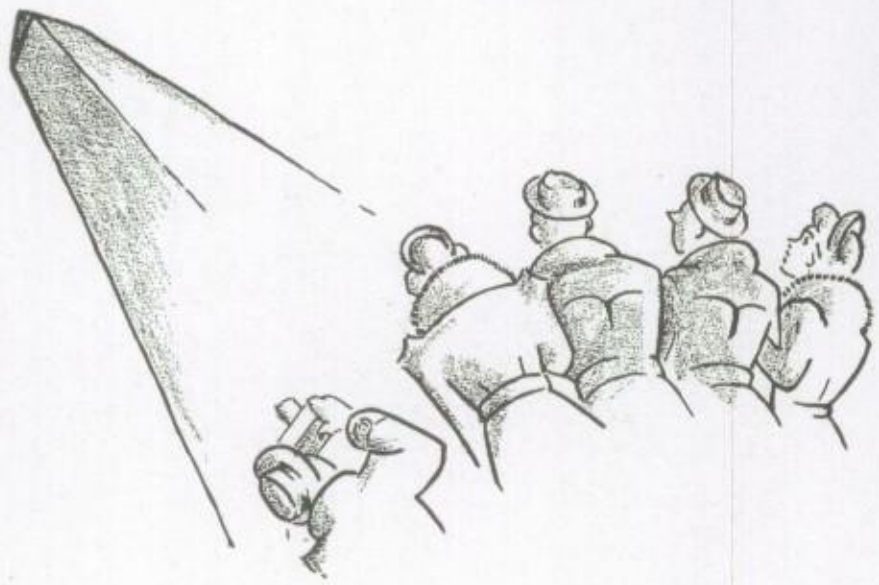
You put this thing on me, Josie; I can't make it stay down. Girls just naturally take to ribbons better than boys do, don't you think so? But as long as I'm not the only boy wearing one, I don't feel nearly as kittenish as I may look. Ribbon week is all right, even though it does puncture a few dignified prides around school. It is sponsored by the Almega Club for girls, you know. The ladies start making ribbons weeks ahead of time so that they are certain to have a big enough supply on hand when St. Patrick's Day rolls around and starts ribbon week off with a bang. And poor Miss Skrickus! You can't see her for cellophane during that busy season; but after it's all over and we get to looking normal again, the Almega girls take up their real business once more. They call their club a social service club, and that name covers the situation pretty well. They make gifts and send scrap-books and things to children's hospitals. Each member's service to the club is kept account of by a system of points. For instance, she gets a certain number of points for making a rag doll. If she makes enough rag dolls, she will have all the points she needs to get a special honor pin. I don't believe I have ever seen one, but I'm sure that they are around somewhere, because every year the club holds a special banquet to give them out to the girls who deserve them.

MORTON JUNIOR COUNCIL

I promised a pal of mine that I'd bring you around sometime while you were here, Josie; and I think we would be most likely to find him in the auditorium now. Anyway we can walk past and see. The Junior Council boys are getting things ready for the game tonight, and Al has charge of a couple of doors. The Junior Council really works with the Senior Council in ushering and attending doors at all games and assemblies; but, of course, it's a much more efficient group etc., as any Junior Councilite will tell you. The word Council always seems so very impressive, and the person who belongs to one is quite the acme of something or other. Any Junior Councilite will also tell you that, I think; and that is one point that is perfectly agreed upon by both organizations. Al was pretty lucky to get in the club this year because the membership is limited to sixty and there's a long waiting list. Mr. Larimer is quite proud of the way the Council has grown up. Ten years ago when it was first started there were only eighteen charter members, and now there are so many people who want to join that they must make out petitions to be voted on by the members. Al was selected to attend the Older Boys' Conference next semester along with a few others. You must mention that when you meet him; he'll be awfully pleased to see that you appreciate him.

SOCIAL STUDIES CLUB

I want to take a look at the bulletin board, Josie, so let's go up there. The Social Studies Club is going on another trip soon, and I have to find out the exact date. I think we're going to Hull House this time. About two months ago we went to the Historical Society, and one of the first trips I ever took with the club was to the Harding Art Galeries. For the past two years the club sponsored a trip to Washington D. C. over the Christmas holidays. Mr. Royce extended the invitation to the whole school, but both times something happened that kept me from going along. I'm still hoping to get there sometime, though. Y'know, Josie, the Social Studies Club is about the most interesting club that I ever joined. We do so many things—"Never a dull moment." In the regular meetings we hold debates and panel discussion programs in which members of the faculty give speeches. We have one big social event each semester, and last Christmas it was a banquet for all the former members. We join with the rest of the school in preparing baskets of food and toys in holiday seasons. And maybe you wouldn't believe it of me, but I'm corresponding with a strange young lady in Mexico. Mr. Royce sent to Washington, D. C. for the addresses of some foreign correspondents and over since then we have all felt the urge to travel.



MORTON FUTURE CRAFTSMEN

I don't imagine, Josie, you would be very thrilled over the prospect of going down to the shops to see the hobby show the Future Craftsmen are sponsoring. You might drag me up to see a sewing exhibit sometime to get even. I'd rather just tell you about it sooner than taking a chance of ever losing my dignity at a fashion show. As I was looking over the standards the club has to uphold, I got to thinking that it certainly is a responsibility for the boys who belonged to it. Here is the list of the shop laws which Mr. Thomson gave me as the objects of the club. I'll read them to you: "1. Be clean and orderly. 2. Respect the property of others. 3. Always follow instructions carefully. 4. Accomplish something every day. 5. Work from bell to bell. 6. Work well with others. 7. Promote cooperation between industry and school. 8. Add incentive by recognizing the accomplishments of others. 9. Develop personality. 10. Develop idealism of responsibility and pride in the life work of the members. 11. Be of service to the school and community." If anyone lives up to those eleven points, has grades all above 75, 90 or higher in shop, belongs to another organization, and works at a hobby; he is eligible for the Morton Future Craftsmen's Club besides being a better man than I am. But some fellows make it, so you see it is entirely possible to be a very good child.

DOTS AND DASHES

I'm learning just as much as you are on the little Cook's tour, Josie. When I knew you were coming, I had to make a preliminary tour myself so that I would have something to show you when you did get here and so that I'd know what I was talking about. For instance, before I went around and found out from Miss Deal, how was I to know but what the Dots and Dashes didn't have something to do with the Morse Code? Well, they don't. The Dots and Dashes is the name of the Shorthand III Club. Since shorthand means less than nothing to me, you should really talk to Miss Deal, the adviser of the club, to get a coherent idea of what it's all about. But I guess my job is limited to telling you about the club, and I can do that. There are about 180 Dots and Dashes this year, and the only thing that is necessary for joining the club is that you must be enrolled in a third-year shorthand class. It seems very important to me that these girls who are on their way towards being stenographers and secretaries should be taught cooperation and how to keep on speaking terms with every one. The Dots and Dashes was organized for that purpose. The members put on plays concerning business; they invite speakers to come in to their meetings; they take field trips; and they give several parties.

HOOKS AND CIRCLES

This room here is where the Hooks and Circles meet, and that isn't very hard to explain —it is a shorthand club. How anyone can look at a page of shorthand outlines and actually get something out of them is an eternal mystery to me. Even if I did take shorthand I could almost guarantee that nothing would ever make me remember what all those hyroglyphics mean and how to write them. But these girls of the Hooks and Circles think there's nothing like shorthand. I say girls because there are far more of them than there are boys in the shorthand classes, but I have definitely decided that this fact casts no reflection on the ratio of intelligence between the male and female. But I still can't help feeling awfully dumb in front of a Hook and Circle. Miss Nelson and Mrs. Conwisher are the joint advisers of the club. They say that there is no requirement for joining except that you are enrolled in a Shorthand II class and are planning on a business career. I think the club is a fine idea because it unifies all the shorthand classes and binds one of the largest branches of the commercial department in school. All the members have at least one thing in common—they are all planning business careers when they leave school. In the meetings they are taught the newest business practices and etiquette. The young ladies also learn the proper method of not chewing gum.

LATIN CLUB

If you had come only a month or two sooner, Josie, you would have seen an authentic Roman exhibition. Our Latin Club certainly believes in atmosphere, and they go to a lot of work to make the rest of us appreciate it. I walked into a library one day and was confronted by a boy in what looked to me like a cheese-cloth nightgown with a sash representing a Roman costume. He showed me around and explained all the exhibits. That meant a lot to me because I didn't know but what Latin was spoken by the Latins before I visited the exhibition of Roman private life. Once a year, too, the club has a banquet in the Roman style. Between their two big events, the members dig around in magazines and books and find more exciting things about the dead civilization to report to the others. And you ought to hear them talk Latin! Nothing about them in that respect to make anyone suspect that they go to a modern high school in a land that hadn't even been discovered yet in the time of the Romans! But they must be very good, because to join the club a student must have a grade of 90 or 95. On a teacher's recommendation, he can enter with a grade of 85. Miss Viehoff, the adviser, says that the purpose is to make Latin a language once more to students here in school.

CZECH CLUB

From here, my friend, we go up to the Little Theatre. I don't think you have met the president of the Czech Club, but he told me to bring you along today when I came up to watch some of the members practice a dance in native costume that they are going to put on for the next meeting. I don't think we had better go in Josie; we don't have very much time to stay. We can look through the windows in the door. Look over there by the piano; that's Mr. Mikula, the advisor. He seems to be directing the dance. And just look at those costumes! I wouldn't doubt but what they are authentic. The Czech Club certainly goes in for atmosphere; it goes to most any extreme to get it. Several of the former members have been sent along with members of other Czech Clubs on European trips, and the amount of atmosphere at hand there to be soaked up is practically illimitable. Those people are chosen for their scholarship, leadership, character, and service; and four such trips have been sponsored by the Morton Czech Club. But the members don't go around dreaming about European trips by any means. They go to plays, operas, and concerts that are given in their native language. Often in the meetings Czech movies are shown. Well, we'll have to now, Josie; but I think you have an idea of how the Czech Club attempts to make its members familiar with the customs and traditions of the old country.

SPANISH CLUB

Here's Miss Modini's room. She doesn't like her students to pass by without saying "hello," so you just wait out here a minute . . . You know, she's one adviser of the Spanish Club. The other is Miss Vrba. I have never joined, but I've heard that it's "interesting as well as educational," as we say in book reports. The beginners do not conduct their meetings in Spanish, but the second year group does. That would seem to me to be a little nerve-wracking, but the members don't mind it a bit. And then they do plays in Spanish, and crossword puzzles; and they play a game I think is called animlo, vegetablo, or mineralo. (My Spanish—I wonder?) Almost any Spanish student can join and have his share of the fun when the club takes its trips to the Mexican district.

FRENCH CLUB

While we're on the subject of languages I had better tell you about the French Club. It's very much like the Spanish Club in its purpose and achievements; the members find out about the French life and customs that aren't so generally known, and they learn to speak their language and understand it more easily. I imagine that anyone who belongs to the French Club would find regular class work rather simple. Outside of the meetings, the club takes quite a few field trips to French plays and movies. Purely for pleasure the members some times go to such places as the Brookfield Zoo and the Field Museum. The first year students have a club apart from the rest of the people in the club. That really makes two French clubs; the adviser of one being Miss Roland and that of the other Mr. Perry.

SARMATIA JUNIORS

Come along, Josie; let's look in on a meeting of the Sarmatia Juniors. You aren't getting tired yet, are you? This club has one of the very nicest ideals of any that we have in school. I am not eligible to join; bur Mr. Drechney, the adviser, told me all about it. It was organized for Polish students to give them an opportunity to develop the use of their language. They are active in preparing programs for the P. T. A. and women's auxiliaries, besides entertaining in February by giving a social in the cafeteria. Here's the room now. That girl is giving a talk on Polish people in business. We're too late to go in now, but I have the program. Next, the president is going to give an article on military advancement. After the program the club will have its business meeting.

LOST AND FOUND

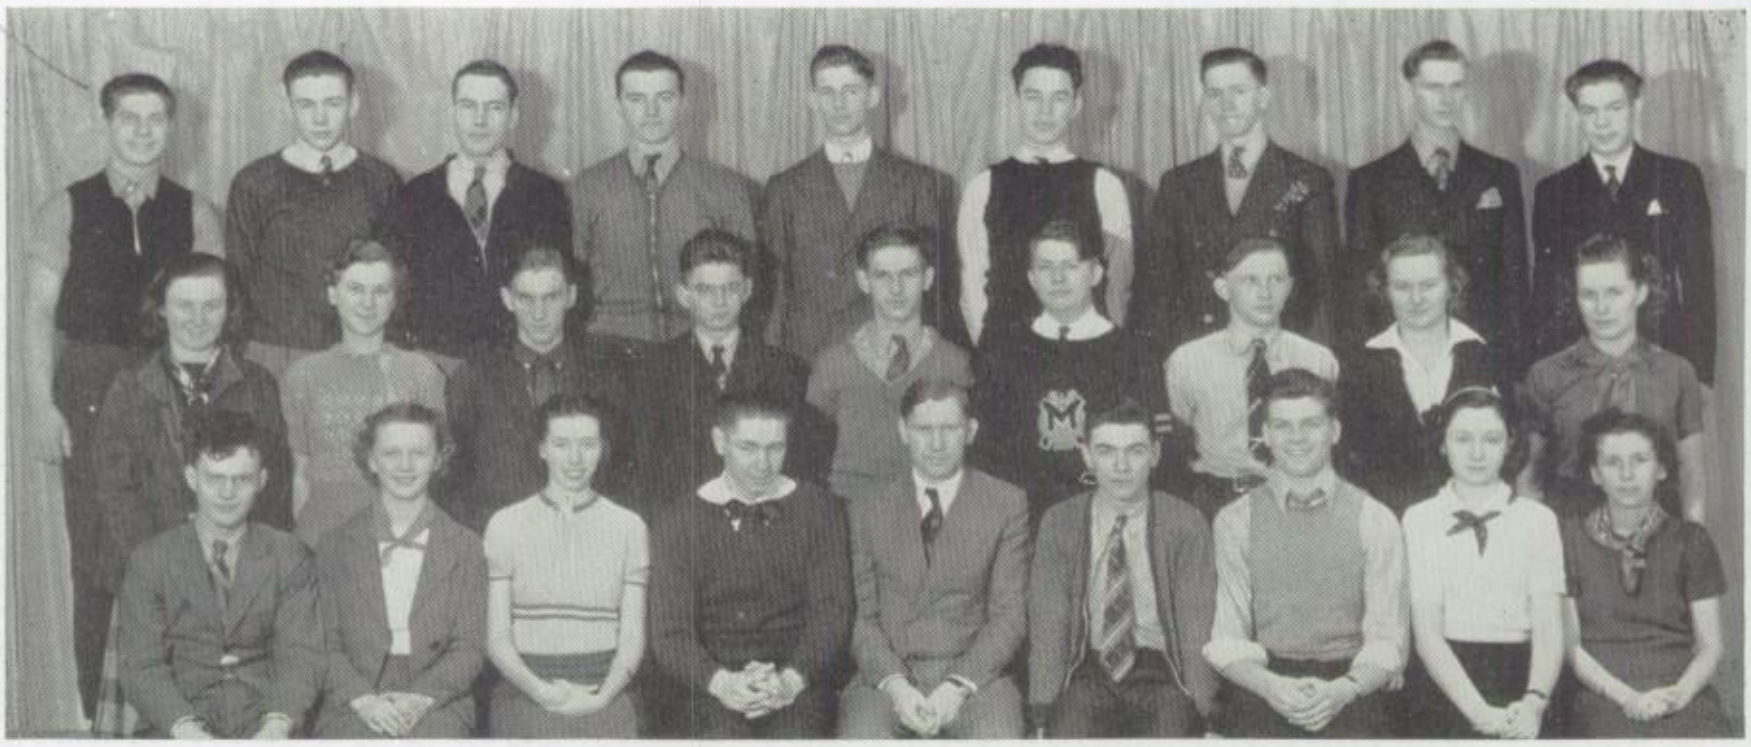
Right here, Miss Blow, you see Morton's torture chamber. It works like this. You walk up to the little door. If you're not too rattled, you look around in the room, which reminds you at first glance of an old curiosity shop. You look into the eyes that have looked at hundreds of other tragedies just like yours; and whisper, "I lost my fountain pen." The moment that follows not only seems like a year but carries with it convincing samples of what a lethal chamber or an iron maiden must be like. That's always been my experience at the Lost and Found. The girls who take care of lost fountain pens, etc., are the Lost and Found Club. Miss Danovsky supervises things and has always gone with them on trips that they have taken to Hull House, the Argo factory, and radio studios.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Remember Mr. Lucas, Josie? He founded a very active organization when he taught here at school two years ago. Confidentially, the only thing that's keeping me from joining is my weak constitution and my susceptibility to acid smells and things; the club itself certainly sounds fascinating. Mr. Muehl takes his members on trips to the Rosenwald Museum and the Government laboratories in the Post Office Building to study the processes connected with chemistry. The club once submitted to the Junior Academy of Science the best paper among the other papers on scientific subjects that came from all over the state. I think that one of their best projects is that large periodic table of elements that hangs in the recitation room. In the meetings the members set up experiments and explain them, and the whole purpose of the club is to make us more at home among the atoms.

PHYSICS CLUB

Here are two books published by the Illinois State Academy of Science which you really must look through sometime, Josie. Members of the Physics Club have received prizes for the past six years at the state contests, and their names are all listed there; some of them have appeared on the programs of the Junior Academy of Science. The club prints a paper; so if someone misses a meeting, he can check up on what was done by the others. Right at the present time, Mr. Barr tells me that one of the members is working on an experiment to try and detect cosmic rays. If he succeeds, it will be the first time it will have been accomplished at Morton. Experiments on telescope making, short wave apparatus, ether spectra, and many electrical appliances have been worked out.



OPERATORS' CLUB

Say, do you see that boy carrying that long suitcase? He's one of the Operators' Club members. Many's the time those boys saved the day for me by showing us movies in a class instead of letting the teacher question me. That's one reason why I admire those strong, silent men of the films so! They work with Mr. Moore and Mr. Fox in operating the projectors for classes that use visual education. The membership of their club is limited to only the few juniors and seniors who are needed to run the machines. They must be accurate, prompt, and dependable. The prospective operator has his record looked up by a committee; and if it is satisfactory, he is voted into the club. Then he is taught how to handle the projector; and after a final questioning, he becomes a movie-man.

WEATHER CLUB

And now let me introduce to you a very little twig on Morton's great branch of student activities—our youngest child—the newly organized Weather Club. I have no personal interest in the club, but I've heard something about a daily temperature chart that is kept by the members, and some of their projects sound very intriguing. As a group they plan to construct a weather vane which will light an electric bulb showing what direction the wind is coming from. Mr. Moore was explaining to me the other day how they made a chart showing the annual temperatures since 1884 besides completing some mechanism for studying our weather, so there's nothing slow about these baby meterologists! The club membership is not limited, and it was only about two months ago that the entire group visited the Chicago Weather Bureau.

CREATIVE MUSIC CLUB

Before you decide definitely upon whether you care for me as a friend or not I had better tell you that I compose what I fondly call music. My first venture was the time I wrote a German lieder to be played by the "Hungry Five." This all happened while I was a member of the Creative Music Club, and everyone at the time was working upon an original composition. I never had heard things quite so original in all my life. At the first performance of my lieder it sounded as if they were raiding an opium den, but besides trying to compose, the experiences that really mean something to us are the times Mr. Lundgren takes us to the Symphony. There is something so elusive expressed in each composition that, when we can grasp it, we feel a oneness with all the other Creative Music Clubs in this world.

RADIO CLUB

To your left, Josie, is the room where the radio experiments are set up. That's Mr. Barr in there now with those boys. I think one of them is the president of the Radio Club. They must be working on some project; it may be the one they are sending to the Academy of Science for the contest next week. In their regular meetings the boys set up experiments that have to do with sound and other related subjects of radio, and quite often someone gives a talk on amateur apparatus. After that part of the meeting they hold a free-for-all where anyone can bring up a question to be answered by the others. The Radio Club has grown big enough to have a branch already, and that's the International Club where the boys learn how to use the code practically.

CARTOON CLUB

Switching from the sublime and aery to the ridiculous, I must explain about these cartoons in the halls. (Note to the Cartoon Club members and Miss Stevenson, the advisor: (I was only kidding!) That fellow over there representing the chorus and screaming for assistance is certainly not to be denied. And Popeye over there on the stairway telling us that he's going to the Prom ought to bring results. It's a very valuable service our Cartoon Club renders us. The members treat their art very seriously too, studying from books and everything. Assignments, which are topics to be illustrated by original cartoons, are given out one week to be completed for the next meeting. And far from being the bane of their existance is the fact that several prominent New York cartoonists have our own Cartoon Club to thank for their early training!

MORTON MODEL AEROPLANE CLUB

Since you've just been flying around in a real aeroplane, Josie, you make me feel very young and inexperienced. You see, the closest I ever got to an aeroplane was when I made them, and they weren't even real. But they were good! I used to make 'em by the dozens until I got one to stay up in the air for twenty seconds. Then I told Mr. Gawne I was eligible to join his model aeroplane club, so that's what happened. There is an initiation fee of a quarter, but that and a little previous experience with model aeroplanes are the only requirements for membership. My brother was a charter member back in '28, and now he goes to an aeronautical school in Washington state. He says his contact with aeroplanes in high school was what led him into actual aviation.

CIRCULATION STAFF

That sign boosting the basketball game next Friday night next to "Popeye" proves that the Circulation Staff is always on the job. Way back in 1927 it was the purpose of the Staff to take care of the publicity, sales and distribution of the Annual and Weekly; but now since we've grown up, these two organizations have undertaken their own sales service. The Staff's job now is to publicize and sell tickets for any of our school activities. The members also take charge of advertising the sale of Christmas seals, distributing them, and collecting money and unsold seals. This is another one of our exclusive clubs. Every boy belonging to it must have grades no lower than 90 and must be absolutely the cream of Morton's boy-crop; and Mr. Green says their main purpose is to promote good school spirit.

FROSH-SOPH. GIRLS' CLUB

Now you've got me, Josie. Up to this time I've been able to tell you a something about most of the clubs, but now I'm stumped. Being neither a girl nor an underclassman, I'm not expected to know anything about this club; so it's really no fault of mine that I don't. But Miss Danovsky wrote out a list of things that you simply must know; I've been carrying it around in my pocket all this time. It says that the club is a genuine service club having connections with the charity organization in school and children's hospitals of all kinds. The girls make scrap books and send out baskets of food to go to poor families in holiday seasons. They help with the Lost and Found and the M. S. G. A. besides initiating freshmen into the whirl of high school life. They really work!

CREATIVE WRITING CLUB

Here comes another one of my true confessions, Josie. Besides quite a few other faults, I've always wanted to be a writer. I never joined the Creative Writing Club in school because to put something worth-while down on paper has always been such an effort for me that I thought it would be time wasted. But now I'm learning nothing about writing while there would have been a chance to learn if I had joined the club. Miss Thornsburg is the adviser, and every year the members sponsor a literary contest for the whole school besides acting as judges for essay contests. I've been told that they do a lot of individual work just as they would do in any class. This year the club has been down to the Tribune Tower and listened to a few speakers on literary forms.

MORTON SENATE

The Morton Senate is our school's "grand old man". He's been going strong for nigh onto fourteen y'ars, and he's not giving up yet. He stands over us looking like an ancestral portrait of second cousin Lige on Grandpa's side—very smugly satisfied over the accomplishments of his family. The Senate is almost the oldest organization in school. Since it began as a public speaking class, most of our present speech clubs grew out of it. The Senate is divided into two groups—Hamiltonians and Jeffersonians — headed by the adviser Mr. Kimball. Rivals! that's what they are; just about deadly enemies from competing for that pennant which goes to the winning team. Is the Senate gay in its old age? Why, it holds all kinds of parties! There's still life in that old body and some to spare.

MORTON JUNIOR SAFETY COUNCIL

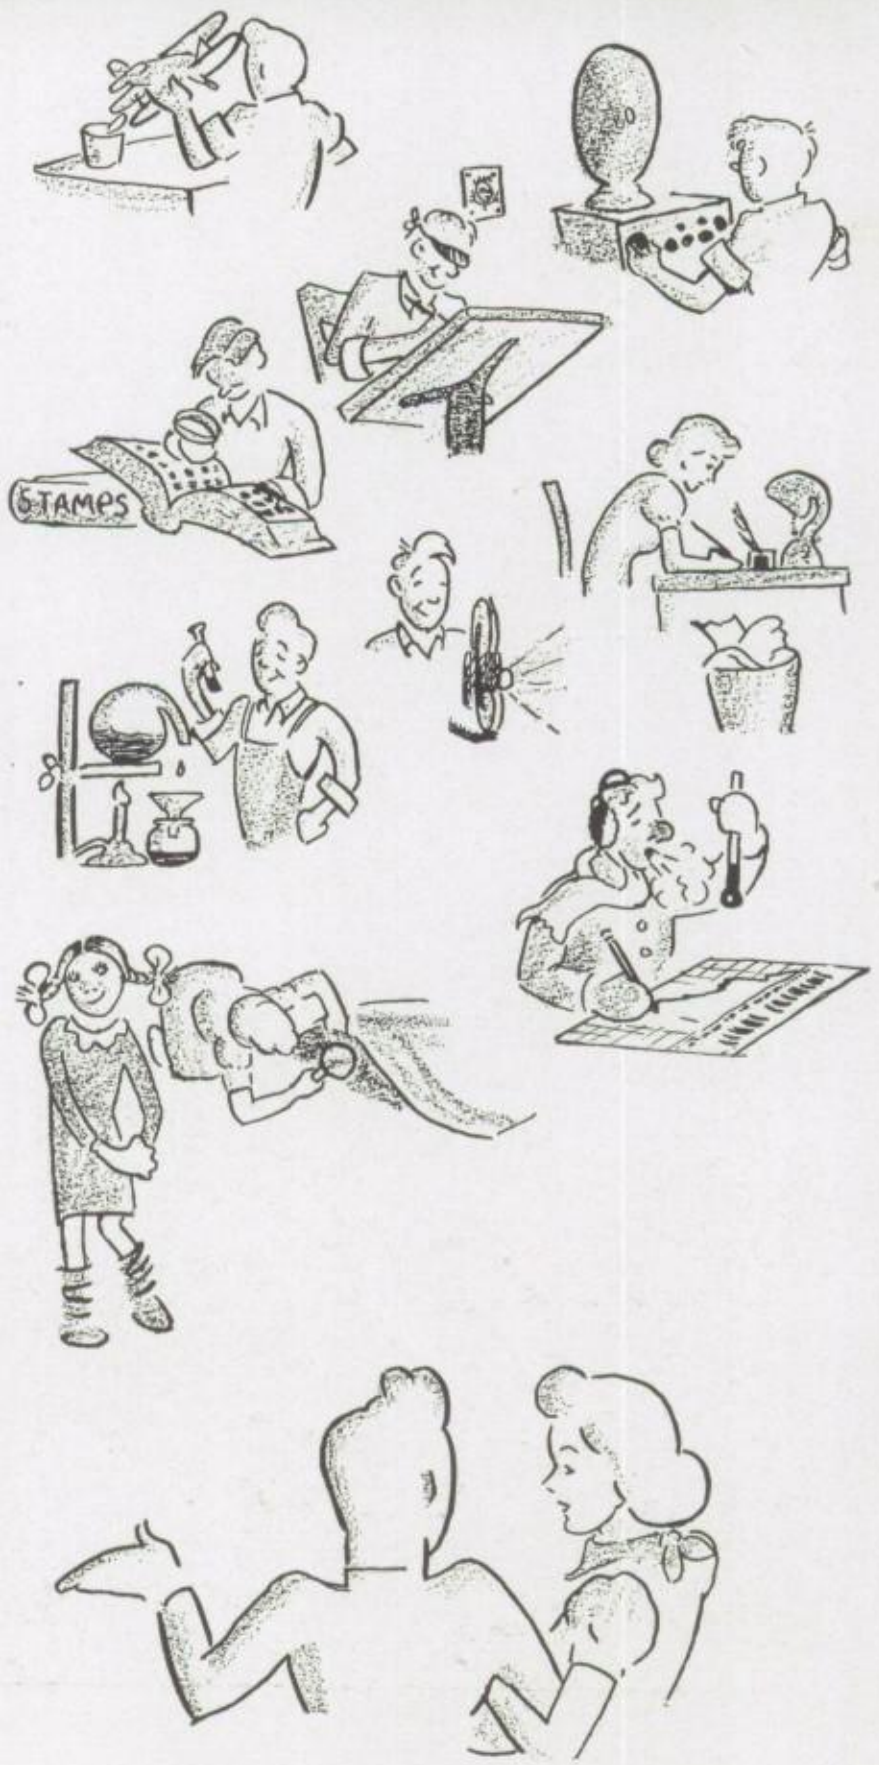
Listen to this, Josie. "Observe traffic rules and live to a ripe old age—650 died in 1936 because of bicycles. 40% of the fatal traffic accidents happen to pedestrians. 16,000 dead in 1937. Don't be a jay walker. 3,800 dead in home accidents in 1936. Protect yourself with safety in the home. Learn the A. B. C's of Safety. Always be careful." I had to make those posters, Josie, for the Morton Junior Safety Council for safety week. I made so many that I don't wonder I have them memorized. The Safety Council is a club devoted to making Morton a safer place for the students. Mr. Pierce has charge of the club; and it's because it is a part of a national safety organization that we plan a safety week in Morton.

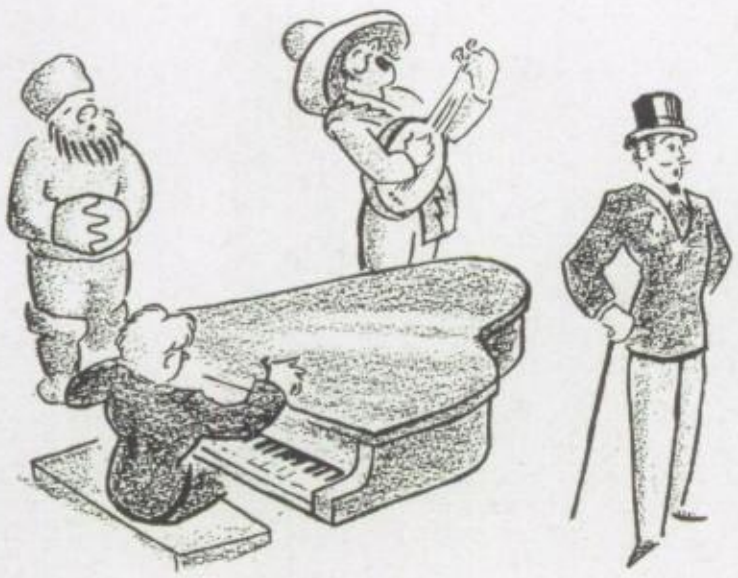
JUNIOR RED CROSS

When I went up to see Mr. Kimball about the Junior Red Cross, I found out something I never knew before. When I contributed last year to help the Red Cross relieve the flood victims, I became a member. So when I asked Mr. Kimball what the Junior Red Cross does, he explained that the membership is made up of two representatives from each service club in school. There are about thirty people, then, who work as representatives of the members of the Junior Red Cross. They sponsor an annual roll-call and get members by contribution; they carry on a kind of international correspondence with schools all over the world. Picture booklets, called portfolios, are made and sent to foreign schools in answer to portfolios received from them. The next portfolios are going to Prague and a city in Greece.

THE STAMP CLUB

My! Doesn't that look impressive? "J. Sterling Morton branch to hold monthly meeting with the Berwyn-Cicero Philatelic Association this evening." Look at it stretched all across the bulletin board. What it means is that the local stamp clubs are going to have a get-together. Mr. Morley, the club adviser, will speak on some recent stamp issues. Y'know, when anyone mentions stamp collecting to me, he's got to smile. When I was very young, I found on the sidewalk what I thought was a rare stamp specimen and immediately resolved to start a collection. After I had worked myself up to a fine state, I found my prize "stamp" to be a tax certificate from a package of cigarettes! "Swapping" is the members' favorite indoor sport although it is not necessary to have a collection to join this club.





The Challengers

Athletes

Physical Education

A BACKWARD GLANCE

Now look at our athletic field, Miss Blow! From this window up here you can see how big it is. If you wanted to walk around it, you could find out its size that way; but just looking at it is much less tiring. I brought you up here because I thought this scene would provide the proper atmosphere for the story of Morton's "past." You would never suspect it, Josie; but let me tell you this: there's more to that athletic field out there than meets the eye. Just imagine, if you can, the good old days—which didn't seem any too good then—when Morton was entirely surrounded by athletic fields and as far as the eye could stretch. A little too much of a good thing is my opinion. But the fields were certainly there, and they were athletic in that they furnished good stamping grounds for the neighborhood cattle to come over and exercise in. Before Morton moved in, the cows held complete property rights over all this section of Cicero, but the tragedy of civilization struck them about that time and made them clear a space big enough for our school. I don't suppose they would have minded very much even then if someone hadn't gone and built a crushed stone road in front. That was the undoing of the cows. From that time on they had to begin looking for other athletic fields.

The earliest physical activities in Morton were baseball and football. No one could afford to be picky in those days. If you had the equipment needed, you were accepted on the team. A critical choice of material was unheard of. There was no organization of the gym department, which was really no more than a bunch of fellows playing ball after school.

The swimming team was not organized until about 1919 when it first entered the suburban meet coached by Mr. Pope.

In 1925 we had an athletic field.

OUR FOOTBALL TEAM IN 1898

By 1921 Morton had entered the adolescent age and began thinking seriously of growing up. As a result the attendance increased enough to make it necessary to have a larger P. E. department. The J. S. M. branch of the Girls' Athletic Association was organized by Miss Gyles, Miss Miller, and Miss Munn. The boys' "M" club was founded by Mr. Joseph.

Every institution must have something tragic happen to it before it is fully grown up, and Morton was no exception. A fire about Christmas time of the year 1925 destroyed all that part of the school where the assembly hall and the girls' gym were located. Maybe we could read something prophetic into the fact that with our physical education department firmly established, all the reminders of the crude beginning should be taken away in favor of things that tell the story of enterprise better.

Mr. MacLean gave me this list of Morton's more recent championships. You may have this copy to take along with you. "The heavyweight basketball team was the Suburban League Champion in 1923-24-29-30 and was State Champion in 1932; the lightweight basketball team was the Suburban League Champion in 1924-30-31 and Northern Illinois Champion in 1932; the frosh-soph basketball team was the Suburban League Champion in 1934; the baseball team was the Suburban League Champion in 1931-32-(they were out of the League in '33 and '34)-35-36; the soccer team has been the Cook County Champion since 1935; the boxing team has been the State Champion since 1934. In a recent ranking of local schools for the 10 year period from 1927 to 1937, Morton was ranked first in baseball and lightweight basketball. The Morton lightweight basketball team in 1938 was the runner-up in the consolation bracket of the Stagg National Tournament."

MANAGERS

Who are these boys you see with the teams? Why, they are the team managers. Each sport needs someone to carry out many odd jobs connected with a game. These boys have formed a club under the advisership of Coach Pavlinek and, among other things, sponsor a Sportsmen's Banquet every spring.

LEADERSHIP GROUP

Senior girls have the opportunity of taking leadership as their gym activity. That means that they become an assistant teacher to a gym class of under classmen, and take over part of the responsibility of teaching about seventy girls to folk-dance properly.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Did you know, Josie, that many years ago every girl in P. E. paid 10c each semester, and automatically became a member of the G. A. A? It was re-organized in 1926 with officers, managers, and regular meeting times.

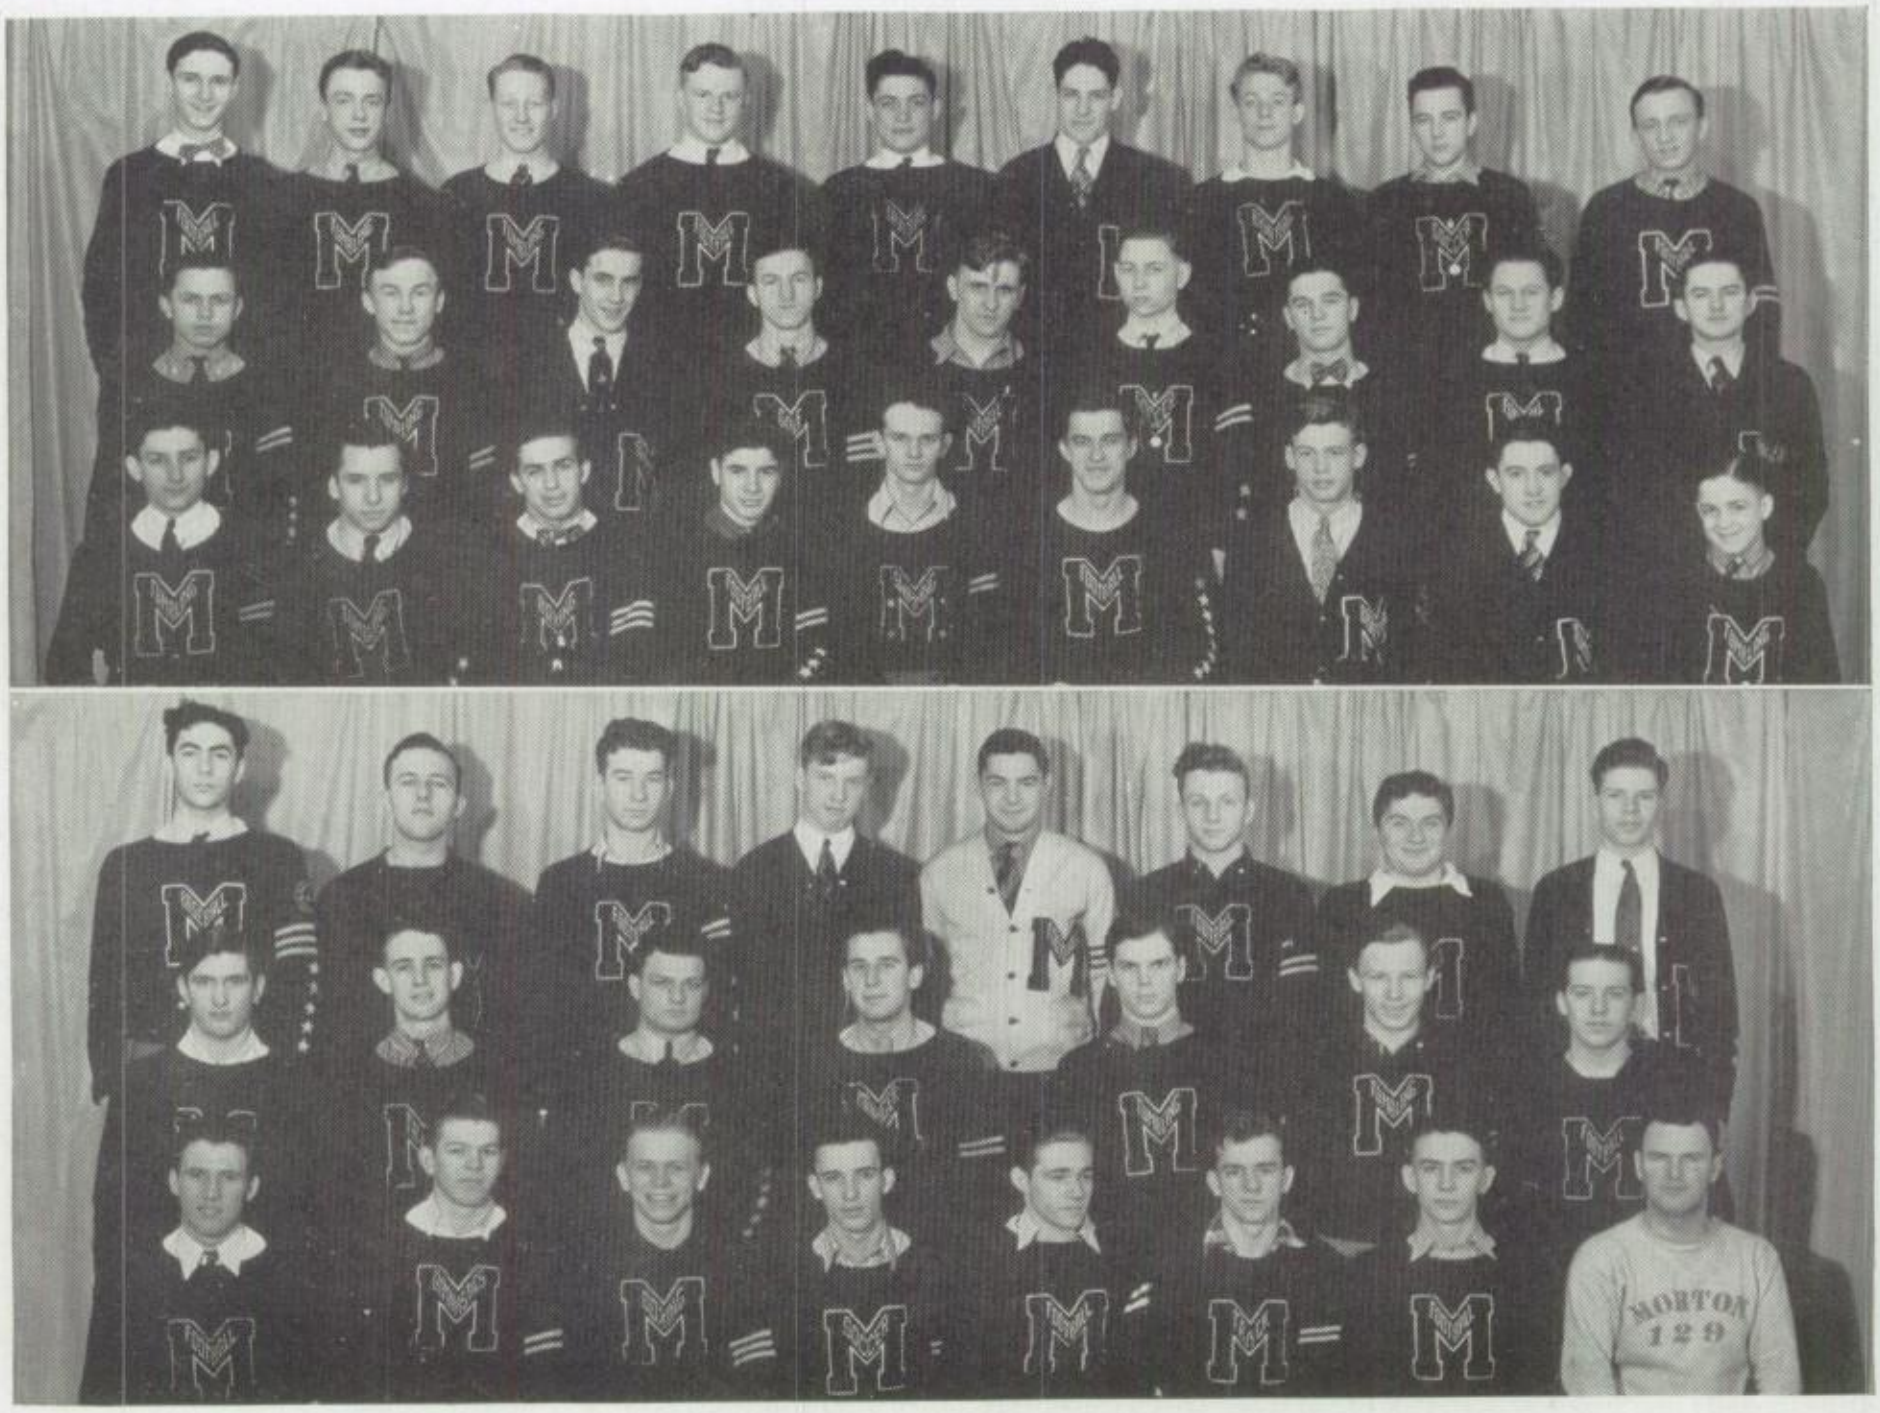
The purpose of the club is to stimulate interest in girls' athletics and gymnastics and to standardize and promote ideals of health and sportsmanship.

The general meetings are held the 1st Monday of every month the fourth and ninth hours, board meetings every two weeks, parties and dinners at regular intervals during the year, and games and health activities are sponsored.

There are at the present time in the Morton chapter 240 paid members.

The G. A. A. gives four awards, each requiring a specific number of earned points. Sportsmanship, scholarship, games, posture, and hygiene are carefully checked by Miss R. L. Fisher, the club adviser, before each girl gets her award.

Josie, let's go to the Little Theater, and I'll let you sit in the meeting a while.



VARSITY "M" CLUB

Because schools wish to show gratitude to their athletes, these institutions award letters. The ideal letterman is not a one-sided athlete but an all-around athlete. He is not only proficient in sports but in his studies also. He doesn't allow his physical being to overpower his mental personality (brawn-over-brains). In his sports he never forgets his sportsmanship; it is always foremost in his mind. He remembers that training doesn't cease when he's off of the field but continues wherever he goes. In the end he will not only benefit physically from his athletic life but will learn many lessons which are much more costly to learn in latter life.

In Morton one acquires the privelege of wearing an "M" by earning 1000 points. He gains these points by participating in some phase of athletics. His points are given to him either when he represents his school in some competition with some other high school; or in the case of intramural sports, when he takes part in some athletic contest between his fellow students. In such sports as tumbling he is awarded points for his participation in exhibitions. To gain a letter in any sport, one earns a majority of his points in that particular sport.

To earn a letter one must be well-rounded, not only because he must be eligible while out for athletics, but after he earns his thousand points, he must display his versatility by swimming one hundred yards. So you see that to earn an "M" a person must be an ideal individual.

GIRL'S "M" CLUB

The boys are not the only ones that are awarded "M" 's, Josie. The girls get a break too. They too must remember sportsmanship throughout everything they do and remain in training for their sports whether in season or not.

The girls' club was started in 1929 by Mr. MacLean who put Mrs. Murren in charge of it. In order to get into this club, a girl must have earned a certain number of "M" points won through intramural competition or by scholastic endeavor. When a girl has met the requirements for joining, she must go through a certain initiation period. During this time, each girl being initiated has to be responsible to one member besides bowing to all the others. They must do such things as carry all their books plus the gym clothes to all their classes. Many times one can see a girl carrying a doll or perhaps an egg or umbrella.

When the admittance to the club is finally given, the girls start planning banquets, initiations for incoming members, and other affairs for their benefit and pleasure.

This year the girls decided they would like to have a sweater all their own, so they had one designed; now they are "sporting" a sweater as well as the boys. However, they went the boys one better and also procured their initials to be worn at the waist.

CHEER LEADERS

Our energetic group of cheer leaders and our spirited cheering section certainly spurred our team on to many victories this year. Every game saw the cheer leaders out on the gridiron or on the basketball floor leading the cheers of many lusty voices. Cheer leaders are chosen for their agility and their personality. It takes more than a lusty voice to be a successful one. The leader must have the crowd "with him" to get the best results. Mr. Green, who trains this energetic group is an excellent study in dynamic personality himself. He "gets right in there" and demonstrates the contortions as he teaches them.

This year the cheer leaders have helped to instill in the student body a respect for clean sportsmanship. A code of ethics involving crowd behaviour was successfully adopted. We are proud, Josie, of the conduct of our students at games as well as we are proud of the sportsmanship of our teams.

FOOTBALL

Although we won but one league victory, Josie, we feel more amply repayed with having produced as good a fullback as Bill Fugate.

Captain Bill received two great awards, being selected as first string halfback for the Chicago District All Star Prep football team, sponsored by the Chicago Evening American; and being chosen fullback on the Chicago Daily News All-Chicago District Prep football team by the coaches of the Chicago area teams.

By winning their opening tilt of the '37 season the heavies received their first victory in three years, beating Downers Grove by the score of 12-0. Our heavies earned their second victory, their first league victory, against Highland Park with a score of 19-0. Fugate, Reese, and Bachelli crossed the goal for our touchdowns.

FROSH-SOPH FOOTBALL

Our Frosh-Soph squad, like the heavies, won but one league encounter. This was against New Trier. In spite of this a few boys stood above the average players. They were: Levanek, Fargo, Albaugh, Christ, Neimand, and Hoihe.

The purpose, Josie, of our freshman football, like any other Frosh-Soph sport, is not mainly to represent our school in the Frosh-Soph section, but to develop a varsity team for the years to come. Just recently Morton inaugurated a new system of developing future football players in which an intramural contest is held to determine just who are the budding possibilities of the freshman class. The boys who show the best prospects are given the opportunity to join a football group, called freshman football. This group doesn't participate in inter-scholastic football competition; it is merely a class whose sole purpose is to bring out whatever "latent" talent there is in these young boys.

These boys, when they become sophomores, are choice material for the Frosh-Soph football team which gives them the interscholastic competition that is so important in the training of all athletes.

BASKETBALL

Do you remember, Josie, my telling you about our national championship basketball team? This wasn't the only outstanding basketball team we have had; our teams have always finished at the top. Our varsity team under Coach Ziebell finished their 1938 season in a tie for second place With Waukegan with seven victories and five defeats.

Starting the season with several injuries our heavies were hampered by a lack of scoring punch, but rehabiiitation of the squad enabled them to finish the season in fine style.

After we won two practice games from Riverside-Brookfield and La Grange, our quintet won their first Suburban League contest against Proviso, 20-14. We beat Proviso in their first league loss in 24 tilts. "Ace" Parker was the high point man, scoring eight points.

Bad luck hit the squad, resulting in the loss of our next four Suburban League encounters to Waukegan, New Trier, Oak Park, and Highland Park.

Our varsity five executed a surprise victory in their next Suburban League game by handing Evanston its first defeat, 25-20. Captain Bill Jugovic presided over the point-making for both sides, with eight points on four field-goals. Fine defensive floor work on the part of Ken Polivka helped play an important part in our victory.

Coach Norm Ziebell had installed a winning combination, because they won all the remaining league games except against New Trier. In this game they lost by one point, 25-24.

The traditional Oak Park encounter was successful for our five because they swamped the Orange and Blue, 33-22. "Arch" Albaugh led our scoring attack with thirteen points. Joe Hapac came next with seven points.

In the last Suburban League encounter our heavies beat Evanston for the second time, 30-21. Bill Jugovic ended his league season by scoring eleven points, to lead our attack. Incidently, we were the only team to hand Evanston, the league leaders, two consecutive defeats.

It was the third year in a row that we had finished in second place.

In the regional tournament we were ranked behind Proviso, who placed last in our league. In spite of this great handicap of not being ranked behind York, our team made a good showing. It was the prediction of many fans that our boys would upset the tall Yorkers and take the regional crown. In our first round match against Riverside-Brookfield, we easily won. In the semi-final battle against York we staged a game fight. The Yorkers took the lead in the first half and held it throughout the entire game. The last few minutes of play saw a desperate rally from our squad. Ken Polivka led our team with ten points. The factors that contributed to our defeat were a lack of team play and the tall Yorkers ability to rebound shots. Morton easily took the consolation crown from Proviso; but this didn't enable us to qualify for the sectional tournament.

FROSH-SOPH BASKETBALL

The freshmen-sophomore basketball quintet are co-champions of the 1938 Suburban League race.

Coach Fencl's five finished the season in a tie for first place with Oak Park, with nine victories and three defeats.

Our team lost to Riverside-Brookfield 21-20, and then defeated La Grange 26-22 in the first two pre-season games.

The frosh-sophers lost their first Suburban League game against Proviso, 18-12.

Captain Bill Albaugh led the squad in the second Suburban League encounter to a 23-16 victory. Dowd was high point man for the locals with eleven points.

In the next Suburban League game we defeated New Trier by the score of 45-24. Dowd was again high-point man hitting the laces for nineteen points. Captain Albaugh was second with eight.

After losing our next game to the strong Oak Park quintet the frosh-sophers swept the next six Suburban League games with victories. The victims were Highland Park, twice; Evanston; Proviso; Waukegan; and New Trier. The loss on the part of the Evanston five was its first in Suburban League competition. Sliwa paced the yearlings offense with eight points.

Oak Park again stopped our Maroon march by beating us 22-16. The result was the locals third defeat of the year. Inability to sink free-throws and the Oak Parkers fast break were the main causes of the defeat. Sliwa, Dowd, Albaugh, and Demkovitch supplied the action for our team.

By defeating Evanston 20-15 we clinched a first place berth. Albaugh led the team in scoring with nine points. Heroic efforts on the part of Dowd and Demkovitch assured Morton of its victory. Midway in the final quarter an Evanston man broke loose and sped down the floor for a sure basket. But Dowd in a surge of speed stole the ball, and as he fell he tied it up. Demkovitch and Dowd scored the winning margin.

SOCCER

Soccer, Josie, is another sport at which our athletes are not only good, but just a little bit better than any other school in Cook County. For the past four years our soccer-men have laid claim to this county title.

Oak Park, our toughest opponent, was defeated in a series of two games. Because our team had a majority of points, they claimed the series and the county title, which depended upon the series. We easily defeated the Oak Parkers in our first encounter, 3-0; but they triumphed over our boys in the latter meeting, 1-0. This gave us three points to their one. Tilden, Chicago Soccer League Champions, were also defeated by our men in a series of two games, 0—0 and 1—0.

Although such outstanding men as the co-captains, Vanek and Tvrzicky, composed the squad, the victories were all due to team-work and keeping the ball constantly on the ground, a "carpet" play. Our soccer-men displayed excellent sportsmanship by having few fouls called against them.

Very few humorous things can possibly happen in a soccer game. One of the "never to be forgotten" events was the goal scored by two men. It occured at the Oak Park game when Cuda and Carter simultaneously rushed and kicked the ball for a goal.

Our first game against Mooseheart was played in a heavy downfall of rain. The ball was practically unmanageable, being very slippery. The rain hindered any progress whatsoever. Even though both teams had to face equal difficulties, our constant bombardment of goal shots gave us a decisive victory.

At the second Schurz game, one of the most exciting games of the season, we scored the first goal. They then swamped us with two consecutive goals, making the situation look somewhat hopeless. Then, "quick as a flash," we retaliated with four rallying points, making our victory a sure thing.

At both of the University meets we were met with unusual courtesy. Our boys naturally reciprocated with the same genial play.

At the second Oak Park encounter, which was the last of the season, the ground was completely covered with a two-inch layer of snow. The surface of the field was hard and slippery. Both teams were sliding "all over the lot." Oak Park's goal was put in on an erratic free shot, kicked from about thirty yards out.

The fullbacks were Biccihi and Kolinek. Tvrzicky, Dvorak, and Chesla took care of the halfback positions. Cuda and Srnensky played left wing and right wirg respectively. Carter, Hirschberg, Vanek, and Sass made up the rest of the squad.

BASEBALL

Baseball, Josie, is one of the many reasons for our school's wide-spread fame. As defending champions of the Suburban League, our varsity baseballers under Coach Fencl completed a very successful season by finishing in second place.

Our squad suffered but one defeat during the season losing to New Trier by the score of 5-3. In this apparently unexciting game our string of 21 victories was broken by a gentleman by the name of Bruhn. The deciding factor in this game unexpectedly appeared when Bruhn hit a home run with two men on base. Pianowski was the losing pitcher.

In the first game of the season we tied Farragut, the game being called on account of darkness.

The baseballers provided new hope by beating Senn. Kenny Polivka struck out two, and Elmer Malecha led the hitters.

Loyola Academy was our next victim.

In the first Suburban League encounter of the season our varsity team shut out Oak Park, 5-0. Pianowski fanned 10 and allowed 3 hits. Oak Park started off with a bang in the first inning, but versatile hurling on the part of John Pianowski stemmed the tide.

The next two games were played against Highland Park. The first game was won by the score of 9-1. In the second encounter we collected 20 hits behind the pitching of Polivka and Meyer and won 16-7.

Evanston was the next victim by the score of 17-8. Our nine collected 16 hits with Malecha, Buchalco, Kolb, and Drish leading the hitting. This was the second league victory for Pianowski.

In the next game our boys beat Oak Park for the second time.

Avenging the earlier defeat in the season at the hands of Bruhn of New Trier, we bounced back and defeated them. Kolb led the attack with 3 hits.

The last two games were easy victories for us. We defeated Proviso and Waukegan.

This year's team started off with a bang. Kenny Polivka pitched as no other pitcher in the Suburban League has pitched in the past 17 years; he hurled a no hit, no run game. The victim was the Oak Park squad who was shut out by Pianowski last year. Kenny didn't allow any man to even so much as reach first base. He fanned 16 of the 21 batters that faced him. This, Josie, is just a sample of what our boys will do to bring home that Suburban League Crown.

Our team is not only made up of crafty pitchers who shut out opponents but of clever fielders and slugging batters who stop them dead in their tracks. So take my advice, Josie, and don't ever come within a mile of our ball park if a game is being played. If, however, you should wander within a few blocks of our park, either be sure that our opponent is at bat or charter an armored car.

The Morton tumblers not only have a high class team; they also have a high class coach. Last year in the annual A. A. U. meet the team claimed the first three places in both the novice and championship divisions. They stood as follows in the novice divisions: 1st, Zaabel; 2nd, Phillips; and 3rd, Slouka; while in the championship division; 1st, Vanek; 2nd, Phillips; and 3rd, Zaabel. The local tumblers practically monopolized all the honors in the Life's athletic tourney last fall. Morton's tumbling coach, Mr. O. J. Kudrnovsky, besides being an excellent tumbler is a former national champion of the parallel bars.

The present tumbling club is a combination of Coach Kudrnovsky's gym club and the tumbling club which was previously under the direction of Coach Meglathery, who is no longer on Morton's teaching staff. The mat-men practice faithfully at the sixth and seventh hours every day. Each hour elects a president and a captain of that respective hour. George Slouka was elected from the sixth hour group; George Oden from the seventh hour group.

Because tumbling is very graceful and requires the use of practically every muscle, it is very enjoyable to watch. The local tumblers participate in many exhibitions. So great is their fame, that they open every annual physical education exhibition held at Morton. On one occasion the tumblers performed at a banquet; at another at a basketball game. They also perform at numerous exhibitions; but, wherever they go, they are always sure to find a well pleased group of spectators.

TRACK AND FIELD

Although our cinder-men have not copped the Suburban League championship, they are rejoicing. Their spirits are lifted by the fact that they, the most shabbily equipped team in the S. L. as far as track is concerned, has continually overcome one of the most elaborately equipped schools—Waukegan. Morton's track-men are handicapped because they have neither a fieldhouse nor an indoor track in which to condition all year round.

Morton gets her track material in the same manner as other teams. She sponsors a tournament in the gym classes to discover any talent that lacks just a bit of coaching to become top-notch.

Our track-men faithfully practice daily during the fifth and eleventh hours. During the winter months practice is held in the halls; in warmer weather on the athletic field. No home meets are held. The team is never chosen by mere personal opinion; tryouts are always held before meets to see just who shall compete. Because Morton has recently become track conscious, her track team is never shy of men in the running events. Field events, however, have not quite as many participants due to the special skill involved.

This year the varsity squad looks forward to a successful season with Allen in the dashes, Bonaguidi and Brown in the hurdles, Brown in the half-mile, Kuba and Moffat in the mile, Phillips, Allen, and Weiffenbach in the broad-jump, Bonaguidi ir the high jump, Sauders and Flickinger in the pole vault, and Janacek and Kuda in the discus and shot put.

The Frosh-Soph squad shows good prospects with Rehberg and Halik in the dashes, Voight in the hurdles, Rehberg in the 660, Krev in the broad-jump, the Smiths in the pole-vault, Pahis in the discus, and Loeffler and Nemecek in the shot put.

Morton trackmen have held the Suburban League 660 Championship for the past four years. Roy Brown is the present holder of the title. Bob Meyer is the present Suburban League frosh-soph discus champion. Bob Rehberg holds the Suburban League frosh-soph 220 laurel.

This year the Morton varsity boys defeated the junior college squad, 81-41. This was no surprise; they have always suffered defeat at the hands of our much younger and agile cinder-men.

BOXING

Do you know, Josie, that we have the toughest aggregation of boxers in the state? As a result of their twenty-two consecutive victories, our boxers have laid claim to the state boxing championship for the past three years. In spite of this fact our fighters are not gloating over their past achievements; they are working very hard, preparing to make victory the inevitable for the future. How are they doing this? Why, they are holding annual tournaments in the school for the purpose of discovering any hidden, latent talent that is sure to be neglected in a school as large as Morton. The winners of this year's tournament, the second in the history of our school, are as follows: Tony Mustardi, paperweight; Joseph Galluci, flyweight; Ed Sryundky, junior bantamweight; George Hejna, bantamweight; George Bartusek, junior featherweight; Arthur Ausli, featherweight; Ray Finch, junior lightweight; Frank Gawle, lightweight; Bill Mrizek, welterweight; Irwin Kolar, middleweight; and Richard Sedlak, heavyweight.

After politely inviting fourteen other boxing-minded schools from various parts of Illinois to be their guests at the first Northern Illinois high school boxing tournament, our boxers rudely massacred almost every visiting pugilist to claim the state high school boxing title. The fourteen schools which were entered in this fistic tournament are as follows: Waukegan, Hinsdale, Highland Park, Peoria Manual, McHenry, Peotone, Durand, Downers Grove, Dundee, Blue Island, Grant, Community High, Elgin, and Riverton. Morton fighters fought their way to seven of the eight final bouts; five of them came out state champions. The newly crowned state champions are as follows: Hardy of Morton, paperweight; Hejna of Morton, bantamweight; Gawle of Morton, featherweight; Capt. Szudy of Morton, welterweight; Warmick of Peoria, middleweight; and Martinek of Morton, heavyweight.

According to the plan whereby each victory in the entire contest yielded one point, the schools rated as follows: Morton, 20; Peoria, 10; Grant, 8; Dundee, 6; Downers Grove, 4; and both Hinsdale and Blue Island, 2 each.

The success of the local boxers is due in no small part to the tireless effort of their industrious coach, Mr. J. Jahelka, who also coaches Morton's championship Soccer team. Coach Jahelka's excellent leadership is self-evidenced in his two championship teams.

GOLF

A. Schumilz, R. Tauer, J. Toman, J. Cuda, Coach N. Ziebell

The golfers, like the tennis-men, hold an intramural tournament every year to find out what material there is in the school. This year Albert Schumlitz beat Jerry Cuda to take the Championship.

The squad is small and composed of versatile players who shoot in the eighties. This year, according to coaches of several schools, they have a good chance to take first place due to the return of last year's entire squad.

TENNIS

This year the team looked on to a very successful season for two very good reasons: many new prospective players have turned up, and most of the players of other schools were graduated.

The Morton netmen not only have, for the first time in eight years, beaten Oak Park; but they ended in second place.

The netmens' strength was due to their two good doubles teams.

INTRAMURAL

The object of every school is to develop its students mentally as well as physically. The ideal student is never one-sided but is a versatile individual who is equally proficient in sports as well as in his studies. Because of this fact, Morton has added to its curriculum the physical education department. The object of this department is not to develop "muscle-men" but to give every individual a general physical training. If a person happens to have a greater skill and knowledge in some sport, he goes out for that particular team.

Students are given a general physical examination every year. If they are found to be defective to such an extent that physical exercise will harm them bodily, they are excused from the physical participation.

The object of our physical education system is to develop skill, understanding, and good form for all sports. The first year takes up the use of the poles. This develops a skill of gymnastics in the student. In his second year the student is taught some fundamental stunts in tumbling. This not only makes him more able to avoid bodily injury but develops muscles which are seldom used in other sports. In his third year the student is taught the fundamentals of a few sports such as basketball and football. In the spring of this year he is able to show what he has gained from this course by participating in a contest (pentathlon) which calls for accuracy and skill in baseball, football, basketball, and soccer. The highest scorers are given certificates. The student is also taught how to wall-scale. He makes use of this skill in the annual contest held at the P. E. exhibit. Along with all of this physical work a student attends health pictures twice monthly.

Aside from the regular gym work many tournaments are held between the gym classes in such sports as football, baseball, and basketball. These are purely for the enjoyment of the individuals and to give every student a chance at tournament competition.

GIRLS' KICKBALL

Let's hurry to the athletic field, Josie, so that we won't miss the kickball game between the championship teams of all the classes; morning and afternoon.

Oh, we're just in time. The team is up to kick. The field is somewhat like a soccer field, did you notice? That pole out there serves as a base. After the player at bat kicks the ball, she attempts to run around the post and back without the players on the opposing team hitting her.

Look! A girl just scored. That means a point for the team at bat. When three outs are made, the side is retired, and the team out in the field comes to bat. Wasn't that a great game?

I'm so glad that all the first teams and the "M" club are going to have a banquet; maybe we can get something to eat. There are six hundred girls here for a turkey dinner. The best table and best stunt get a box of candy. I'm afraid we'll have to leave now, but I'll see you bright and early tomorrow for those horseshoe, ping-pong, and shuffleboard games.

TOURNAMENT WINNERS—MORNING

VOLLEY BALL

Let's go up to the girls' gym, Josie, and watch the girls play volleyball. If we stand near that net which reaches seven feet above the ground we can see all the plays very well.

Volleyball is really a very fast and exciting game. Just watch how gracefully that girl serves the ball; it's going over the net and the team of girls lined up in three rows on the other side of the net try to hit the ball back.

The girls in the back row usually hit the ball to the girl in the first or second rows, and they in turn hit the ball very hard and down over the net so that the opposing team has difficulty in returning the ball, which is similar to a soccer ball but much lighter.

The exercise one gets from volleyball is very healthful; for can't you see the muscles working when that girls jumps and reaches for that ball, Josie? When we have more time, we'll come down and try the game; but now I've got something very interesting to show you, let's go.

SHUFFLEBOARD

Come to the girls' gym to watch this shuffleboard game. It is seldom played in the gym classes. In this game wooden pucks are pushed along a board, table, or floor with a staff, the object being to place the pucks in certain areas outlined on the board. It is a very popular sport on shipboard. Doesn't it look as if it would be fun?

HORSESHOES

Outside of the school on the athletic field we find our horseshoe rinks equipped with stakes but not with horseshoes which the girls supply for themselves. Senior girls sometimes play this game in the spring and fall for gym credit.

PING PONG

Open that door and peek in, Josie. This is our ping pong room. Ping pong is a game played with paddles and a small ball. On the middle of the table is a net, and one must hit the ball over the net and hit the other side of the table to earn points. Ping pong may be played with two or four people, single or doubles respectively. Most senior girls clamor to get ping pong as a gym activity, for it is fun and they don't have to dress for gym.

SENIOR NINTH HOUR CHAMPIONS

Slodicak, Reznik, O'Brien, Macena, Phillips, Tonelli, Schwager.

BASKETBALL

Sit there, Josie. Would you like to see some basketball games? Basketball is a fast game which requires skill. The principal of the game is to make baskets to score points. In girl's rules there are three guards and three forwards on each team. The forwards of one team and the guards of the other team cannot cross the middle line.

SOPHOMORE 5:10 CHAMPIONS

Soucek, Hruda, Duchon, Krueger, Hamacek, Benda.

Our tournaments are organized through gym classes, and there are several extra curricular basketball teams in existence at the present time.

Oh what a graceful shot, and presto the ball goes through the basket for two points! If the girl had been fouled and had made a free shot, she would have received one point.

I'm so glad you like basketball and will come out for it, Josie. You'll enjoy it.

JUNIOR BASKETBALL CLASS

"M" CLUB STARS

BERTHA VALUCH

VIVIAN REZNIK

PAULINE PHILLIPS

DONNA CLAIRE REHKOPF

MILDRED HANZLIK

These five girls, Josie, are the girls who have received stars from the girl's "M" Club. The girls who have earned two "M"s by being clean sports, good athletes, and willing workers are eligible to receive the stars.

We feel proud of the girls who receive one "M" and look up to them; therefore the girls with two "M"s are placed upon a pedestal.

It is difficult for a girl to receive an "M" quickly for there are not as many competitive sports open to girls as to boys. Hard work and ability have earned stars for these five girls.

GOLF
TENNIS

Let's go out to see the tennis players, shall we? I wish you could meet Miriam Grant; she was the champion of the girls last year. I wonder if she will win again this year. You know you can play singles or doubles. Tennis is really a game of skill requiring muscle coordination and steady nerves.

While we're outside, perhaps we could watch the golfers. Senior girls may take this sport as one activity. The idea is to teach the girls some sport they can use as recreation in later years. Aren't those girls graceful?

Now we'll go down to the bowling alleys on 59th Court and Cermak Road to watch the girls bowl. All the girls are rushing down the street so that they can sign up and will not have to wait so long to play.

That girl has excellent form; her body follows through with the ball. I wonder what her score is. Let's look. She made a strike and then knocked down 9 pins; therefore her score is 19 in the first box. One has 10 turns to bowl in one line with 2 balls with each turn.

Bowling is a senior activity and one line counts as a day's gym class. Bowling is one of the first exercises.

A TAP DANCING GROUP

TAP AND FOLK DANCING

Let's go to the auditorium foyer now, Josie; we may see some folk dancing. It's fun to learn the polka and schottische. Sometimes folk dances are given at physical education programs; then the girls look real pretty in colorful costumes. The girls learned the "Big Apple" this year and had a grand time.

Let's wait for a tap dancing group, Josie. They always have tap dances given at the physical education exhibition. The girls certainly have a fine sense of rhythm. If they would get mixed up once, I should think they would be lost. See how they all move together.

A GROUP OF BIG APPLERS

CREATIVE DANCING

Let's sit here, Josie.

"Swing up and down and over and fall."

The girls are practicing the technique of creative dancing brought to this school by Miss H. B. Knight.

By doing these techniques the girls strengthen their muscles and acquire graceful movements. They employ muscles used in no other activity.

There are two groups; one for beginners and one for the advanced girls. Only the advanced ones make up dances because they require a lot of training.

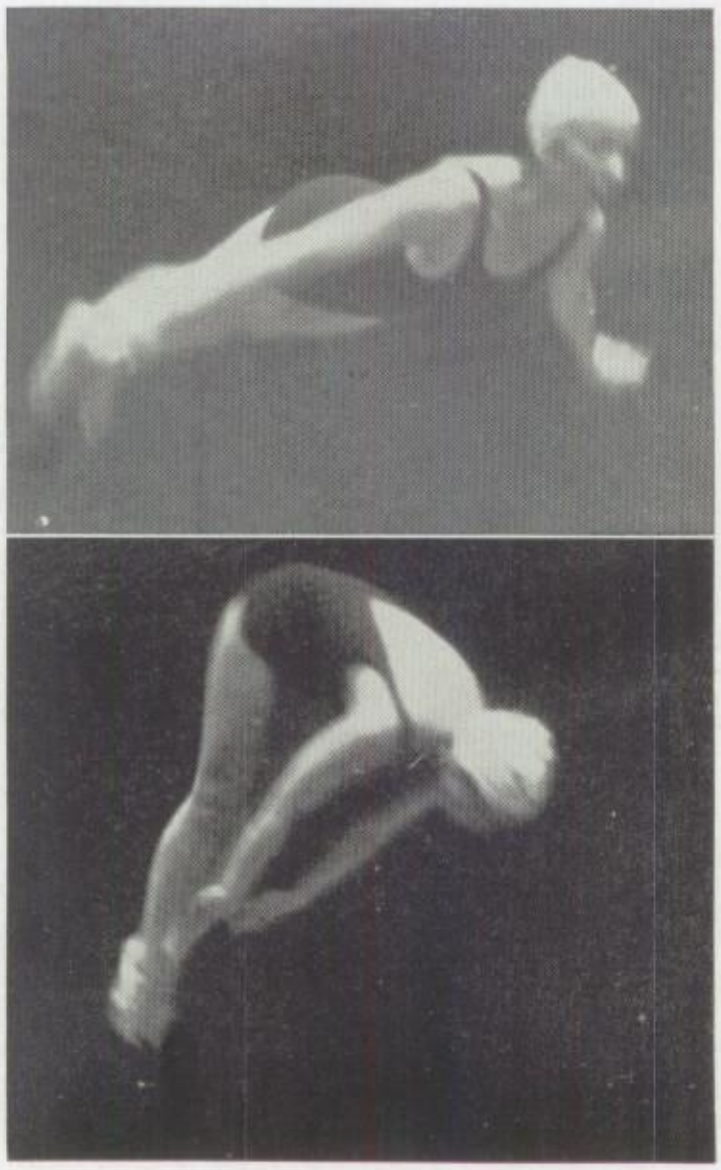
LIFE SAVING CLASS



I almost forgot the swimmers. Would you like to see them, Josie? This year there were two classes for advanced mermaids; it certainly was fine that there were special classes for teaching proper methods of rescuing people. Wouldn't you be pleased if you were a life-saver, Josie? When the girls met twice a week, they learned the various approaches, carries, and breaks necessary for a life-saver to know. They also practiced the Prone Pressure method of resuscitation, learned to use torpedo buoys and life-preservers in towing their victims, and practice with poles to make rescues without going in after the drowning person. Sometimes after passing the test some girls assumed a great deal of responsibility by taking life-guard duty to help the gym teachers in the swimming pool; it was excellent experience for them. By volunteering to do this work they rendered a service to the school without seeking rewards. Sometimes when the life-saving practice was over, the teachers instructed the interested in simple diving. Both the life-savers and the girls just learning the necessary information derived a great deal of enjoyment from both the swimming and life-saving practice because it helped them keep in trim for the summer swimming.

Rescue Work

POSTURE CLASSES

Everyone wants to look his best for some special occasion, and the easiest way to accomplish that is to get into the habit of feeling top-notch and looking your best every day. In the posture classes we try to acquire the habit of good posture, which is the best way to get rid of the slumped and droopy way of carrying one's self around. Thinking of stretching up to the ceiling or the sky 99 44-100% of the time is a big help in changing the almost-on-the-verge-of-collapse look.

Poor posture may be the result of bad habits of sitting, standing, and walking; of fatigue or of improper nutrition. So first we try to find out the causes, and start working to eliminate those faults.

The posture classes are a part of the regular gym work for those girls who need individual help, the girls attending the posture classes two days a week and going to their regular gym class the other three days.

We find two different conditions in the girls who have poor posture: the girl who is very flexible and does not have the strength, co-ordination, and sense of balance to maintain good posture in her activities; and the girl who is so stiff from habitual poor posture that she cannot pull herself up out of the improper body position. In the latter case, many special stretching exercises are needed for limbering up, before good results begin to show up.

If a girl really wants to improve her appearance, and tries to think about her carriage no matter what activity she is engaged in, she will see the improvement very quickly. Half-hearted work in the posture classes does not bring results. It is not what the girls are told to do, but what they themselves think and do all day, that will improve their appearance.

The posture department is under the direction of Miss Marks and Miss Leonard, who work with the girls in well ventilated and lighted rooms.

POSTURE CLASSES ARE A PART OF THE REGULAR GYM WORK.

The Medical Department

Dr. Harry Smejkal

Nurse, Emma Churran

Our Medical Department is another outgrowth of the Physical Education Department, Josie. With the rapid increase in attendance at Morton, it has been necessary to broaden the scope of the department to take all possible precautions for the prevention of disease. Health education is considered a vital part of our system.

Each year every student is given a thorough examination, and if a defect is found, an attempt is made to remedy the ailment. This year, and for years to come, each freshman is to be given the tuberculin test. If traces of tuberculosis are discovered, proper care will be provided.

These yearly examinations and the daily routine of the doctor and nurses, which might be anything from thawing frozen ears to extracting ingrowing eyelashes, show how progressive our school has been toward the promotion of health.
